

Moon's Door Unlocked for Apollo 11

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI)—Apollo 10's triumphant astronauts have unlocked the door to the moon. Apollo 11's spacemen will walk through that door in July.

Thomas P. Stafford, Eugene A. Cernan and John W. Young flew home today bearing the knowledge on which space officials will affirm decision on the date for a manned lunar landing.

Even as Stafford, Cernan and Young blazed through the sky Monday to a Pacific Ocean splashdown East of American Samoa, the three men selected to fly Apollo 11 to a lunar landing in the Sea of Tranquility practiced in spacecraft trainers at Cape Kennedy.

"The Apollo 10 mission has been outstanding," said Neil A. Armstrong, commander of Apollo 11 and tabbed as the first American to set foot on the moon. "We are looking forward to hearing about it firsthand from Tom, John and Gene."

Stafford, Cernan and Young, who took the Apollo command and lunar landing modules to the moon in a dress rehearsal of the planned July landing, returned to earth at 12:52 p.m. EDT Monday.

The astronauts were picked up by the carrier USS Princeton, welcomed, examined by doctors and fed, and flown late Monday to Pago Pago in American Samoa where they boarded a jet for a direct flight to Houston. They were to arrive home about noon EDT today.

The astronauts were greeted at Pago Pago by Gov. and Mrs. Owen S. Aspinall and about 5,000 Samoans. Mrs. Aspinall and two island beauty queens presented the spacemen with colorful leis while a group of a jet for the last leg of the trip home.

Their wives and children awaited them in Houston. So did numerous space agency experts who planned to pick their brains for 11 straight days, gathering technical information for later use.

"We have a busy work schedule ahead of us preparing for a July launch, but Apollo 10 has done the pathfinding and shows the job can be done," Armstrong said.

Space agency officials said they found nothing in Apollo 10 to prevent flying the landing mission on schedule, but reserved the right to delay it if necessary. Tentative liftoff for Apollo 11 is July 16, tentative lunar landing July 20.

"This is an historic day," said Dr. Thomas O. Paine, director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA). "Eight years ago yesterday (May 25) the United States made the decision to land men on the moon and return them safely by the end of the decade."

"Today, this moment, with the Apollo 10 crew safely onboard the USS Princeton, we know we can go to the moon... Apollo 10's astronauts roared into space from Cape Kennedy at 12:49 p.m. EDT May 18 and then executed with precision the maneuvers needed to place it on the way to the moon.

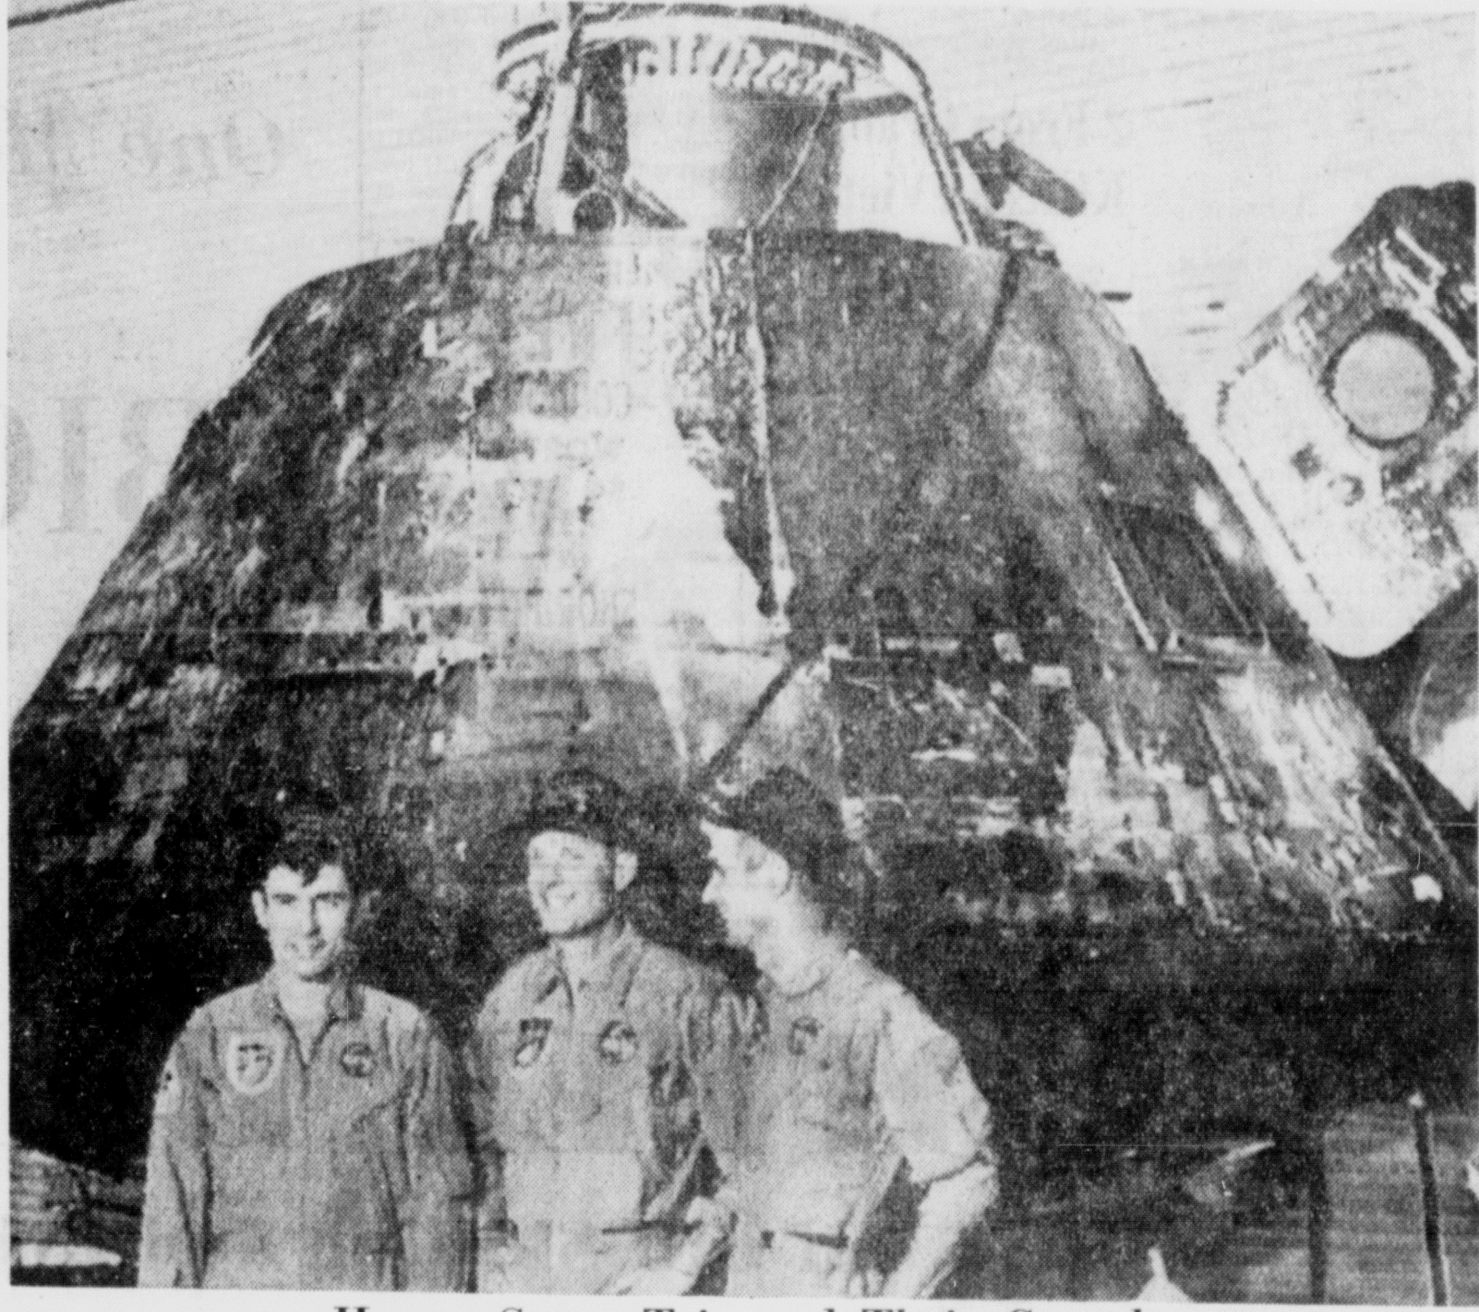

Before they splashed into the Pacific Ocean just 2.5 miles from their intended impact point, the astronauts had:

- Flown closer to the moon than man has ever flown before. That came when Cernan and Stafford Thursday took the moon lander called "Snoopy" down to within 9.24 miles of the moon on one pass and within 12 miles on another;
- Mapped and photographed the tentative landing site for Apollo 11.
- Beamed back more television than the other three Apollo mission crews combined, including the first color beamed back from space;

- Proved men could navigate with accuracy in the tricky gravitational fields of the moon; and, perhaps most importantly,
- Flew almost the exact path the moon landing mission will take and demonstrated the Apollo spacecraft—its components and the men who fly it—can perform the lunar landing operations in moon orbit.

President Nixon telephoned the astronauts after they were aboard the carrier, congratulating them for their "magnificent achievement" and saying he wished he could go on one of the flights. "But I don't think I could check out," Nixon said.

Czechs Toast Their Cousin

VYSOKA NAD KYSUCOU, Czechoslovakia (AP) — "They have returned to our planet. Let's drink to our cosmonauts," the husky Slovak said, raising a glass of brandy.

Imrich Cernan, cousin of American astronaut Eugene Cernan, proposed the toast in a darkened room full of Slovaks.

They were crowded around a television screen so small it needed a magnifying glass to enlarge the flickering image of Apollo 10 brought from the Pacific by satellite, Eurovision and Czechoslovak TV.

By "our cosmonauts" Imrich meant Eugene A. Cernan, Thomas P. Stafford and John W. Young.

Especially Cernan. The Navy commander is a hero to this town of his forebears and its citizens are hoping he will visit them.

Waiting for the astronauts to be fished out of the ocean, Imrich said: "They're sure to be drinking to each other's health right now. They've got a tape recorder and recordings and spaghetti in there, surely they must have a bottle of something to drink."

Clear Appearance

The three astronauts appeared clearly on the screen aboard the recovery ship Princeton a few minutes later. Children in the crowded room said, "There's Cernan on the left. There's Stafford. There's Young."

Imrich, 38, is of the same generation as his 35-year-old second cousin. They are great-grandsons of the late Andrew Cernan of Vysoka.

Two of Andrew's four sons emigrated to America about 1900. One of them was the astronaut's grandfather, Stegan.

"Now more and more people here claim to be related to our Gene," said Imrich.

Three families of Cernan cousins can be found in this town of stucco and log houses lining the meandering Kysucou River on the eastern slope of the mountain range that divides Slovakia and Moravia, 250 miles east of Prague.

The population of Vysoka is 4,800, predominantly Catholic with a sprinkling of nonbelievers and Communists.

"We lit candles and prayed for the cosmonauts in the church last Sunday. It was our duty," said Imrich's mother, Katarina Cernanova, a sturdy woman of 54.

In Czech Air Force

Imrich once served in the Czechoslovak Air Force and worked for the city government until the Stalinists ousted him in the early 1960s, he said. The father of a daughter 11 and a son 8 months old, he now helps his parents at the family sawmill, working from dawn to dusk.

Solar System Is True Goal

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — After the moon, the whole solar system.

That, says the director of America's space program, is the long-range goal.

And Dr. Thomas O. Paine, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, believes the conquest of earth's fellow planets will prove to be "reasonably straightforward."

"While the moon has been the focus of our efforts," Paine told a news conference Monday, "the true goal is far more than being the first to land men on the moon, as though it were a celestial Mt. Everest to be climbed."

"The real goal is to develop and demonstrate the capability for interplanetary travel."

Paine said the space program was providing the most exciting possible answer to the age-old question of whether life as we know it on earth can exist on the moon and the planets, and he declared:

"The answer is yes. Men working together with modern science and technology can extend the domain of terrestrial life throughout the solar system."

Asked when he believes interplanetary travel will be possible—and which would be the first planets explored—Paine replied:

"It's too early to really make much of a speculation on that at the present time. There are many, many different problems that would have to be faced before we'd be ready to make a commitment—make an estimate as to the timing."

The next step is Apollo 11. Its towering rocket already sits on a pad at Cape Kennedy.

Present scheduling calls for it to blast off July 16, carrying astronauts Neil A. Armstrong, Michael Collins and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr.

White House Again Backs War Tactics

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For the second time in four days, the White House has gone out of its way to defend military tactics and insist the United States is not stepping up the war in Vietnam.

A highly placed source in the Nixon Administration said Monday night increased war casualties in the last few weeks have been caused by growing enemy attacks, not by American operations. That conclusion, he said, came from a secret administration study.

On Friday, Presidential Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler volunteered the comment that "our activities and our actions in South Vietnam have not increased in terms of initiatives we have taken."

Kennedy Attack

The comments from both Ziegler and the administration source apparently were directed as a response to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who criticized a specific military operation on the floor of the Senate last week.

The reaction also appeared to be aimed at blunting public criticism of the casualty rate. The Defense Department reported U.S. combat deaths in Vietnam last week climbed to 430, the second highest figure for the year. The Pentagon officially attributed it to stepped-up Communist attacks.

Several questions illustrate the dilemma President Nixon would face if he decided to reduce the Vietnam fighting level unilaterally . . . Story Page 34.

In the White House briefing Monday night, the source told reporters American military operations in Vietnam have remained relatively stable since Jan. 20, the date on which President Nixon assumed office. Under the ground rules of such briefings, the source and some of the facts he quoted may not be revealed.

Greater Burden

The source said operations of the South Vietnamese Army have increased since Jan. 20 as part of the effort to enable the Vietnamese to bear a greater war burden.

One example of the increased Communist attacks given was that there were 54 enemy military operations in the week before the Viet Cong offered their 10-point peace proposal. In the week after the proposal, there were 180 military operations initiated by the enemy, with 450 American casualties, compared with 184 U.S. deaths the week before.

The source said he would not try to evaluate why the Communists increased their military operations dramatically after announcing a peace proposal. But he said the study's conclusion that Communist attacks, and not escalation, are responsible for increased casualties was not reached hastily.

He insisted that American casualties are "not the fault of the generals. It is the fault of the terrain and nature of guerrilla warfare."

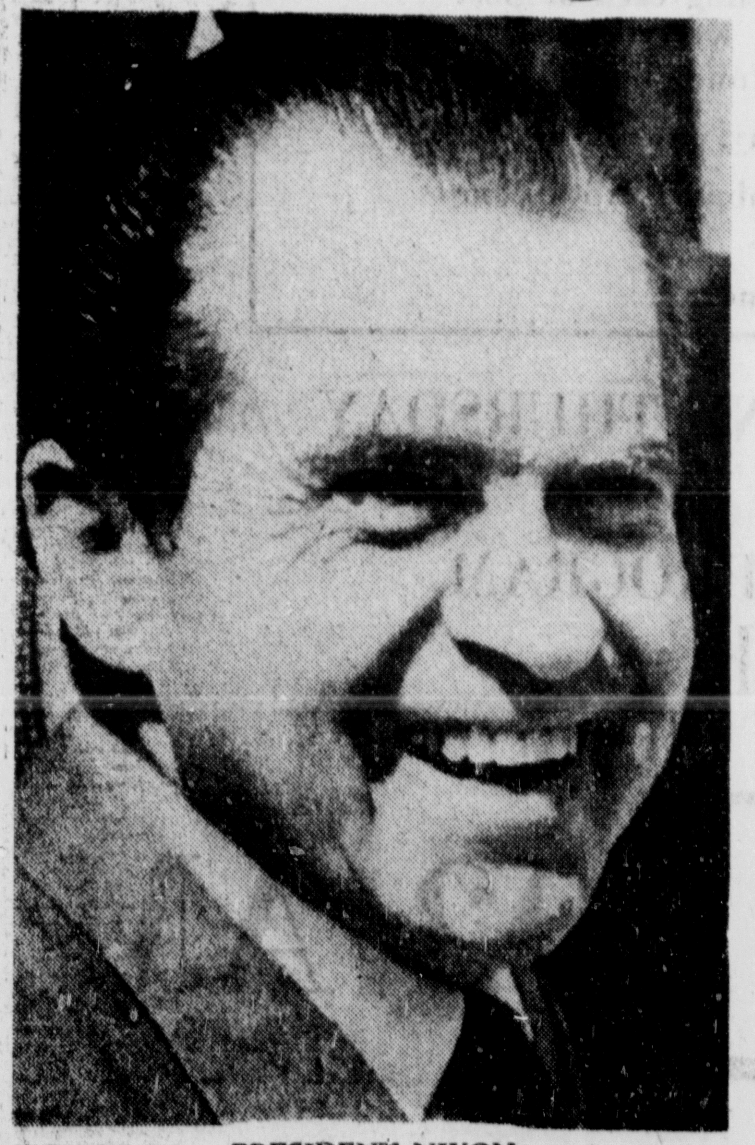

Meanwhile nine waves of B52 bombers went after Viet Cong and North Vietnamese soldiers endangering Allied troops near Saigon, in the highlands and on the northern coast in overnight raids announced today.

Two of the strikes came in support of troops—one hitting Communist approach routes to a highlands camp under attack and another supporting the U.S. Lamar Plain offensive protecting Tam Ky 340 miles north of Saigon.

Communist gunners shelled one South Vietnamese town and 29 Allied military bases over-

PRESIDENT NIXON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon asked Congress today to take the nation's postal system both out of the red and out of politics by putting it in the hands of a government-owned but independent corporation.

The President spelled out details in a special message on the plan, which he described to newsmen at the White House as "one of the most significant proposals made during this administration."

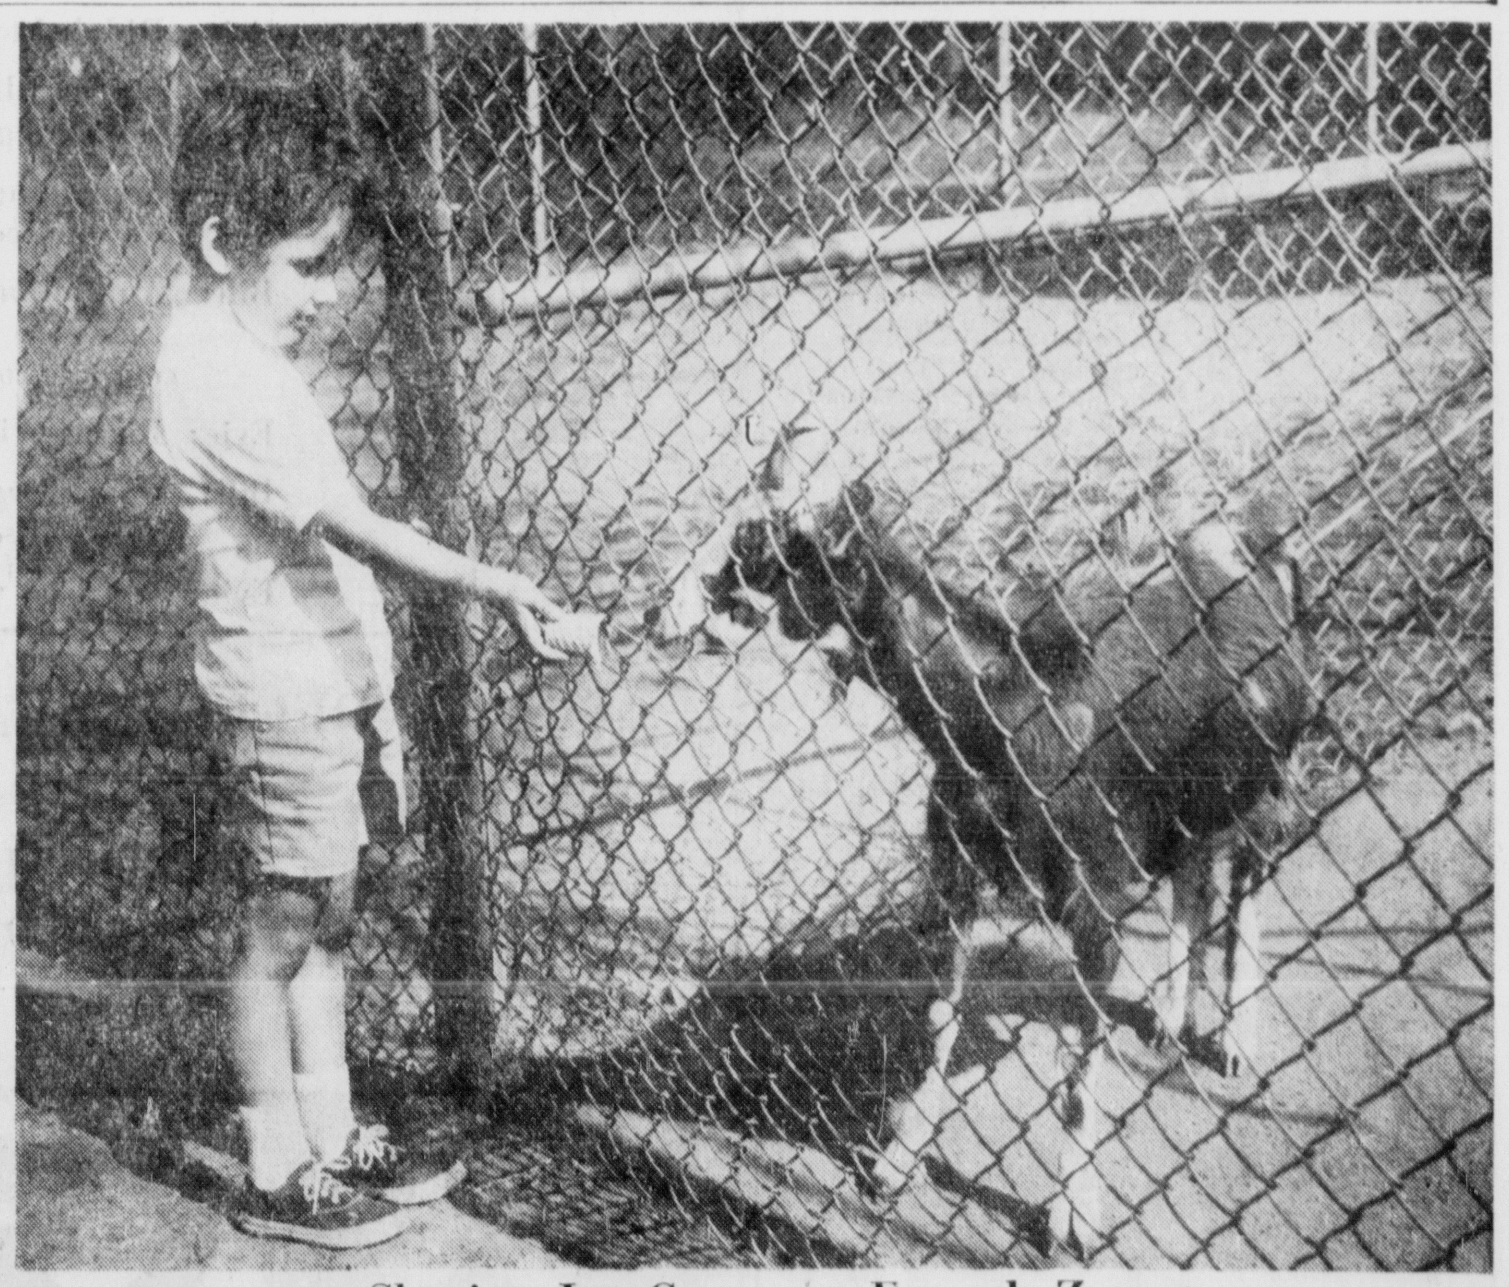

Postmaster General Winton M. Blount told a news briefing that the corporation—which would be called the U.S. Postal Service and would replace the present cabinet department which now handles the mail at a chronic deficit and with admitted inefficiency—could be self-sustaining within five years.

The Post Office Department has been running about $1 billion a year in the red the past few years. Over the past decade, it has amassed an $8 billion deficit.

As Nixon envisioned it, the postal corporation would be administered by a nine-member board of directors selected without regard to political affiliation. A separate panel would be set up to establish a schedule of postal rates, which would be subject to congressional veto within 60 days.

"Such a move would do away with the most widespread and long established source of political patronage, ranging all the way from local postmaster-

Sharing Ice Cream at Forsyth Zoo

Four-year-old Christine Rienzo shares her ice cream cone with goat at Forsyth Park Zoo. Recent days have warmed to ice cream weather but Ulster County growers faced the threat of frost as temperatures dipped to the 30's in the early morning hours today. A warming trend is on the way, however, with the mercury expected to make a steady climb through Friday. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

CAMPAIGNS END — Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty (top) and City Councilman Thomas Bradley wound up their campaigns in the mayoralty race by appearing on radio. Tyrrell Favors City Drug Council

KINGSTON James J. Tyrrell, Republican candidate for mayor of the city of Kingston, today congratulated the present administration on plans to establish a narcotics guidance council for the city.

Tyrrell said he is in favor of establishing such a council in the near future. "However, he said, 'The narcotics guidance council must be initiated properly. Such a council cannot come under the jurisdiction of one man, as stated by the present administration on May 24, 1969 in The Kingston Freeman.'

Tyrrell said he favors strict conformity to the Dureya Bill, which states, "The council shall be appointed by the local legislative body," rather than by the mayor. The Bill further states, "The chairman of the council shall be appointed by the local legislative body (city council) from among the members so appointed to the (narcotics guidance) council," by the members of the Guidance Council, themselves.

The Republican candidate said he will attempt to remove the question of political appointments by a single individual, whenever possible during his administration.

WHITA on Proposed Pool: Luxury, Not a Necessity

KINGSTON A letter showing the We've Had It Taxpayers' Association opposition to a State University College at New Paltz, the school's swimming pool was used by only 10 per cent of the students. The community college had made application to the Ulster County Legislature for more monies to complete Phase II construction and included the pool as part of a $475,000 increase in the budget. Thayer said a check with Dutchess, Orange and Westchester community colleges showed that the three, established before UCCC, do not have pools and added that the New Paltz pool was operated with a $9,500 budget, well over the anticipated UCCC amount of $3,590. The difference in amounts, said the WHITA chairman, show that UCCC had not taken a "realistic" look at expenses.

2 From Orange Killed in Viet

WASHINGTON Two Orange County servicemen have been listed by the Pentagon as killed in recent Vietnam War action.

They are Army Second Lieutenant John E. Huesties, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Huesties, 102 Murray Avenue, Goshen, and Army Pfc Jimmie V. Bock, son of Dr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Bock, 32 Holiday Park, Newburgh.

Hit and Run

Francis B. Post Sr., 27, of 120 Walsh Road, Newburgh, complained to Kingston police at 5:55 a.m. today that an unidentified car hit a truck he was driving on the Rondout Creek Bridge and did not stop. Post said the other vehicle crossed into his driving lane. The Newburgh truck is owned by the C. and T. Haulage Inc.

WHITA, he said, would also with a planned gym to "conserve heating and operational costs." The chairman said he had sent invitations to college officials to attend the Monday session, but said "no one attended from the college."

Invitations also went out to legislators, said Thayer, but they were opposed to the state's only Joseph Martorana (R-9th Dist.) attended. He said then according to Thayer.

Highland legislator "congratulated WHITA" for the "seriousness of the approach to problems."

State Senator Jay P. Rollison and Assemblyman H. Clark Bell attended and discussed their Albany activities. They each spoke for 13 minutes and said they were opposed to the state's lottery, calling it "a failure," combined in the same building.

Charter Proposal Avoids Duplication

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

"We need more efficiency in our county government," Verner May, vice-chairman of the Ulster County Charter Commission member told fellow members several years ago when the commission had its beginnings.

Now, after extended study, May and his subcommittee have conceived a plan whereby duplication of operations and purchasing could be eliminated and replaced by an "office of general administration."

As envisioned, the office, which would be headed by a deputy executive, under a county charter form of government, would be responsible for such things as a secretarial pool to receive all departments, a supply depot for both office equipment and supplies and a clearing house for legal services, county planning, research and development, personnel administration and general office services.

No Burdensome Chores

Each department would retain its governing head but would be relieved of many routine and burdensome chores.

For instance, instead of each department having to budget such things as office supplies, the office of general administration would determine from annual requests the number and kinds of equipment needed in each department and would be responsible for its purchase and distribution.

May said he feels such a system would give leadership to many county operations now carried on, on a piece-meal basis.

A public hearing on the proposal has been set for Wednesday June 4, by the Ulster County Charter Commission. The hearing will be held at 8 p. m. in the legislative chamber of the county office building, fifth floor, May will preside.

Still tentative in form, the proposal will be developed further by the subcommittee on the basis of advice and comments received at the hearing.

It will then be submitted to the full Charter Commission, headed by Ward Ingalsbe, chairman, for decision as to its inclusion in the proposed charter.

When the entire new charter is completed, it will be submitted to the legislature and later to the people for a referendum.

Under present law, the charter must be approved separately by a majority of voters in the City of Kingston and by a majority in the county outside the city.

The Final Round

The June 4 the beginning of the final round of hearings on specific proposals. Others held last November to sound out planned concern with opinion on the coroner system and county executive form of public works aspects of government.

Ingalsbe has stated that sections of the proposed charter which have already been prepared by subcommittees will be presented to the public for comment and understanding in the near future.

Among them are: legislative, finance, general administration, coroner, probation and sheriff.

Kiwanis Guest Gives Air View

KINGSTON

"The switch to air travel is on the way" said Major Frank H. Bloom, operator of the Mountain Airways, in speaking before the Kingston Kiwanis Club last week.

Retired from the air force with the rank of major, Bloom traced the establishment of the local "air taxi" from the Port Ewen airfield to Kennedy airport in New York City.

Bloom spoke of the possibility of a county airport, indicating that it would be "an instrumented facility that would help local growth and afford better air service to the area."

The airways operator concluded his remarks with a verbal picture of air congestion at the Kennedy and other metropolitan airports and the co-operative effort projected to eliminate these problems.

Hurley 'White Paper':

Negative on Airport

By SHANE CROSBY

WEST HURLEY

A "White Paper" giving a negative opinion of the Town of Hurley Board regarding a planned county airport in the township will be mailed to each county legislator early this week, according to Supervisor Rober Schneller.

Schneller said Monday that the report opposing placement of a county airport in Hurley, and including remarks about the "need" for a county airport, will be made public when it is mailed to the legislators.

Opposition to the airport, for Hurley Mountain, was placed in writing by the board through a "citizens committee," Schneller said this committee checked similar airports in other counties.

In another matter before the board, Schneller said he had received word from Town Attorney Robert A. MacKinnon that "in his opinion, we do have zoning."

Calls Ordinance Legal Schneller said MacKinnon felt the zoning ordinance passed in 1967 is legal, in spite of an injunction that was given regarding a previous zoning law passed in 1965.

The 1965 ordinance remains in State Supreme Court, being contested under an injunction by nine Hurley residents.

Schneller said the lawyer would be asked to make his opinion in writing and copies would be sent to the town's zoning officials, Board of Appeals and the building inspector.

MacKinnon's opinion, said Schneller, would mean that the 1967 ordinance "has been in effect since it was passed."

'Hippy' Problem The problem of "hippy day."

types" crowding into the town-ship for the summer months and it was decided to investigate possible ordinances that might curb public drinking and other activities. The board said it would check into ordinances of neighboring Woodstock to check on its methods of taking care of unruly youths.

The board approved a one-day opening of the town dump for Saturday from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. to make up for the Memorial Day holiday on Friday.

The dump is closed by law on the holiday and the board said the extra time on Saturday would help residents who would normally use the dump on Friday.

Soldiers Come Home

Men of the 854th Engineer Battalion returned home Saturday after a two-week training stint at Camp Drum. The weary warrior (R) reflects the rigors of the active duty training carried out at the northern New York state camp in the elements of mud, rain and cold weather. Men of the Kingston units (L) return equipment to the Staff Sgt. Robert H. Dietz U. S. Army Reserve Center on Flatbush Avenue upon their return. The Kingston center serves as headquarters for the 854th which also has companies in Poughkeepsie (C Company), Bullville (B Company) and Monticello (A Company). D Company is Kingston-based. Training sessions were carried out under "combat conditions" and included convoy march to the field, tactical phases, and engineering projects. Maintenance was stressed throughout preparations for the field training. Testing and cleaning of vehicles, machinery and personal equipment carried out by the 854th men enabled them to complete field set up with speed and efficiency. The tactical exercise involved the entire battalion relocating from its previous administrative bivouac area to a defensive position eight miles away. A 30-man aggressor force was constantly present to inflict simulated casualties by way of roadblocks, ambushes, infiltrations and general harassment and deception. But the yearly training session at Camp Drum was behind the weary men who returned on Saturday afternoon (Freeman photo by Haines)

Roosevelt Roughrider at 89 Is Active in Many Areas

By TIM SCHUSTER

MILAN

"When you're almost stone deaf and have a good mind, you tend to spend a lot of time thinking," mused Jesse B. Langdon seated in his living room.

The many facets of this man, one of the last of a breed of individuals, can be summed up in a brief record of accomplishments. Langdon began his adult career with Teddy Roosevelt's Roughriders, and is the last surviving specimen. He was a practicing doctor and veterinary surgeon, and still holds a license in Nebraska and Washington.

Holds Patents

He holds more individual patents than any other person in the United States, 189, and 62 of these have been marketed.

He has written, revised, and edited editions of a manuscript entitled "Taxless Government," which deals with idealistic economics and has caused some comment from the present administration.

He has started the "Story-Langdon Foundation of California," a non-profit organization that has as its purpose the Golden Rule. "Do unto others as you would be done by."

Langdon is presently 89 years old, married, and living on 260 acres in the Town of Milan, adjacent to the Taconic Parkway. His latest patent application, in 1968, is for a motor vehicle ground speed control device that will not decrease the power of the engine.

First Sworn-In

Beginning with the Spanish-American War, "I was the first Roughrider to be sworn in by Teddy Roosevelt himself, and the last to be discharged. I was sworn in May 7, 1898. After we had done our bit in Cuba, charging up the San Juan hill and all the rest of the troops were discharged in August of the same year. I had contracted yellow fever and malaria in Cuba and didn't get my discharge until Dec. 7, 1898 at Fort Yates, N.D."

"After the war, I joined up with Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show and road bucking horses for a time in 1899," said Langdon reminiscingly.

Sixteen years of medical practice in Nebraska saw his mind ferment with practical ideas that began taking form in inventions. "The medical license I have in the State of Washington dates back to October, 1899. I can still remember the number on it, 44."

A list of patents, beginning in 1916 and extending through the present, includes such things as the Delaney Vacuum Breaker, familiar to any plumber or anyone who has ever flushed a vacuum toilet. This was patented in 1937.

Airship Design

An airship, 1928 vintage, utilized two basic airplane components still in use, including a tail steering assembly. "I also had the first jet plane ever to apply for a patent in 1945," claims Langdon.

Other items from the list include a deep well pump in 1927, a device for putting waves in hair in 1927, a counterliner for shoes in 1929, numerous valves through the years, a combined helicopter and engine in 1933, a torpedo carrier and discharger in 1944, a safety razor in 1948, dozens of plumbing apparatus, and a compression brake for motor vehicles.

Economics "is just logical thinking," states Langdon. In his pamphlet "Taxless Government," the contentions made are that "effort money" be paid every worker; that Congress has the right and constitutional power to regulate the value of money by fixing the weights and measures of its purchasing value; that the government, after fixing prices and wages, accumulate a 10 year supply of all commodities; that full employment, through utilizing the surplus workers in doing government projects, be attained; that "anyone who won't work and is able to be allowed to starve."

Theory on Welfare

Also that welfare be supplied only to those unable to work; that everyone would not necessarily receive the same wages; that effort money will be given intrinsic worth when the government buys basic commodities and accumulates a surplus of all things necessary for use; that no surplus material be available to any individual.

A basic concept is that enough money be issued to pay off the national debt, thereby taking away the need for taxes, as all money would be backed up by a 10-year supply of commodities and prices would not be allowed to fluctuate.

"Competition under the effort down at those bald heads and knew what cheats and liars they all were. I would rather not live the same religion. I started my own religion, which is very simply the golden rule, and this is the purpose for the foundation."

Building Completed

"I have put $417,000 into my 260 acres of land here and just completed a $101,000 Story-Langdon Foundation building in Lancaster, Calif. So far we just distribute literature."

A tale of determination may also be gleaned here. "When I was 80," he began, "a tree fell on me out in the yard. I was paralyzed for three weeks, and the doctors said I would spend the rest of my life in a wheelchair."

"I asked the doctor to just put me in the ambulance and take me home. For three weeks I lay on my bed, and then I tried to stand, holding on to the bed, but I collapsed. But three days later I was walking around the room holding onto the window sill. Within four days I drove my Lincoln around my lake out in front. My wife was my nurse all that time, and I'm getting around pretty well."

About the campus rioting and confused state of national affairs, "Langdon says, 'Youth has become confused. I dare you to find one that can give a coherent, intelligent idea of what they really want.'"

Langdon does not profess to be a follower of Mary Baker Eddy, although he says a lot of her writings make sense. He expressed his view of life as "the only way we can recognize Everything has certain vibrations, because of molecular structure and the interlocking of electron paths. The power of life is the supreme being."

Cites Golden Rule

"All religions believe in the golden rule," he says. "Christ said it in the Sermon on the Mount; Confucius was the first to express it; Buddhists believe in it."

A business card expressed the Story-Langdon Foundation view less of race, religion, politics or creed. All self respecting persons endorse this fundamental rule, think it, live up to it. The card says: "Do unto others as you would be done by, another begets understanding." And in 89 years, one couldn't get much farther than that.

To Say Thanks...

Captain, Wife Obey Orders, Fly to Cuba

MIAMI (AP) — Northeast Airlines Capt. Ted Connors says he's the boss in the air and his stewardess-wife runs things on the ground—but there was no question who was in command Monday when a Latin hijacker held a pistol to Mrs. Connors' temple.

"I was very agreeable," said Kathleen Connors, a tall platinum blonde. "As I was passing his seat he jumped up and grabbed me by the arm, put the gun in my side and said, 'Cuba! Cuba!'"

"There was no question in our mind," said Connors, a hefty, square-jawed veteran flier. "We just did a 180 (degree turn) and headed for Cuba."

The gunman in the cockpit, a short, chubby man wearing a tiny felt hat with turned up brim, and two companions in the passenger compartment diverted the Miami-to-New York flight at about 10:50 a.m.

Connors landed the Boeing 727 trijet at Havana at 12:20 p.m. The plane, six crew members and 11 passengers returned to Miami at 4:10 p.m.

A Hard Sell

REDDITCH, England (AP) — Housewife Maureen Leopard 21, thought it was a stunt when Anthony Reynolds, 26, a fire extinguisher salesman, grabbed one of his samples, knocked on the door and told her the roof was on fire. Reynolds finally convinced her to let him in to put out the blaze he had spotted from his car.

"I hadn't seen any flames," Mrs. Leopard said.

Design for Withdrawal

President Nixon has chosen a new meeting place for the strategy session with South Vietnam President Nguyen Van Thieu. They will go to Midway Islands, the two tiny atolls almost midway in the north Pacific just east of the international date line. The navy administered isles are about two miles in area, but they will accommodate the two heads of state and their staffs.

Since President Thieu requested the meeting after President Nixon's speech, stating, among other things, that under some circumstances the United States would be party to political negotiations on the future of South Vietnam, it is understandable that Thieu wants to be sure the strategy of his great ally is coordinated with his own.

President Nixon quickly agreed to the meeting and put the day as soon as he could work it in his crowded calendar, for June 8 at Midway, because he also has some things he wants to talk over with his ally. He wants to fix the design for withdrawal of American troops, even if that withdrawal is only a token one, to satisfy the demands of the home front and especially of critics in Congress.

As a matter of fact, Mr. Nixon has been working on a design for withdrawal almost from the beginning of his term. First, he saw South Vietnam Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky in Paris on his European tour and arranged for closer cooperation between the two delegations to the peace conference. Then, in his recent speech, he held open the possibility of international supervision of elections in South Vietnam, which was intended to nudge the Viet Cong to negotiate directly with South Vietnam.

After Thieu learns in the June 8 confrontation that President Nixon is determined to start the return home of American troops, he is expected to prepare to take over more of the fighting, or talk terms which he could expect the Viet Cong to accept. It may even be necessary for the first contingent of American troops to embark home before Thieu makes up his mind, but Mr. Nixon will set his own time table for withdrawal and let Thieu make his own decision. One thing is sure, Mr. Nixon will have one priority on his mind, the design for withdrawal must start soon, a design that will not endanger South Vietnam or our own homecoming troops.

Extensive Subemployment

Normal monthly unemployment figures issued by the Labor Department consider only those people defined as "in" the labor market, people who hold a job or, if unemployed, are actually looking for one. These figures fall far short of people who are actually not employed. A survey in the capital city of Washington for last December revealed that, while the unemployed were put at 4.5 per cent, the subemployed were 23.1 per cent. If that ratio held in the rest of the country, it would play hob with the belief that we are in booming times.

For the subemployed figure, these categories were included: The unemployed, 4.5 per cent or 17,000 persons; those employed at below the poverty level—from $1,600 for individuals to $7,900 for a family of 13—some 44,600 persons; part-time workers who would like to work full-time, nearly 12,500; people who need work but do not actively search for jobs, called "non-participants", almost 16,250; combined total 90,250 persons, or 23.1 per cent of an adjusted labor force of 390,816.

Low income as a mark of subemployment is a new factor in manpower statistics. It is further defined as the "under-utilization rate". These are the people who, trained and with needed skills, can mean a lot to themselves and to prospective employers. The more such persons who climb out of the subemployment bracket, the better for all concerned.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Look at It This Way, People Get Killed Just Crossing the Street!"

David Lawrence Says

Congress Also Will Face Code of Ethics Problem

WASHINGTON — All the judges on the bench — not merely on the Supreme Court of the United States — will soon have to make up their minds what regular salaries or fees from outside activities are proper for them to receive. Members of Congress will also be confronted with the same problem.

Chief Justice Earl Warren has initiated a meeting of the United States Judicial Conference — the 25-judge policy-making arm of the federal judiciary — to recommend a possible code of ethics and financial reporting rules for all federal judges. This is not a new undertaking, as the conference's standing committee of 11 members has for years set forth principles of judicial conduct. But in view of the revelations which preceded the resignation of Justice Abe Fortas from the Supreme Court, it is apparent that some of the definitions in the rules hitherto made are not too explicit and may have been too broadly interpreted.

Within the last few days, Justice William O. Douglas of the Supreme Court has resigned as the only paid officer of a foundation from which he had received 12,000 dollars annually for nine years. There would appear to be no objection to affiliation of members of the judiciary with charitable or nonpolitical foundations. Criticisms have been made, however, when judges have identified themselves with educational organizations dealing with public affairs, even though supported by foundation funds. Thus, Justice Douglas is an official of the center for Democratic studies in California, and has been participating in its seminars on Civil Rights and international politics. Some of his critics argue that a Supreme Court justice should not be involved in such activities.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana says that he anticipates that before Judge Warren E. Burger becomes Chief Justice, he will discontinue acceptance of a fee of 2,000 dollars he has been receiving annually for three years as a trustee of the Mayo Foundation in Rochester, Minn. The Montana Senator adds that he sees nothing wrong with the working relationship which Judge Burger has had with the Mayo Medical Clinic, particularly because of the judge's Minnesota background and the prestige of the foundation.

All this raises a question as to whether a person who becomes a judge should be permitted to participate in any matters of a civic nature in his state or community even when such connections have, in fact, nothing to do with any court cases.

It is possible that a "conflict of interest" may emerge whenever a judge receives a regular salary or fees from an organization involved in controversial issues or "cause" movements. The Judicial Conference is expected to make its report on June 10, and is likely to favor a complete detachment by anyone on the bench.

Many judges who have served on outside organizations have done so in the spirit of public service and have accepted payments only to cover expenses in traveling to and from meetings. Other, however, have received salaries for extensive services. This has raised the problem of how much time it is proper for a judge to devote to any outside activity on a continuing basis.

When the rules of ethics applicable to judges have been determined, there will be a lot of questions asked also about the income received by members of Congress, too, from sources other than their salaries. If they have funds which have been accumulated before they entered public life, these will naturally have been invested. It may be that rules will be adopted declaring that no member of Congress should vote on any measure which could affect, directly or indirectly, stocks or bonds or other investments which he or his family may possess. Lack of disclosure often generates suspicion.

In a sense, the whole controversy is a tragic development. It now would appear that such matters will be left to the conscience of the individual in public life after certain principles of propriety have been promulgated by a disinterested body.

Campus Unrest Tears Large Holes In the Strained Fabric of Democracy

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA) — Extremely disturbing evidence is being presented to the government that student riots, as now developing, could have serious long-run effects upon this country.

The logic runs along these lines:

Students are considered in our society as an advantaged class, whatever background they come from. If these "advantaged" can get away with breaking the law — if even when they are caught they are given special amnesty — there is grave danger this could lead to a general feeling that this one class is above the rules. This undermines everyone's respect for law.

Violence breeds violence. Every time a student group — or any other — successfully uses violence to get what it wants, all of us are encouraged to rely on violence to gain our objectives.

When leaders of our intellectual establishment are so unsure of their values they cave in under threats, trust in rational process is destroyed. How well can a democracy operate without a basic belief in the ultimate soundness of the methods of reason?

Student militants may so politicize our universities they become centers of social-political unrest, with research and training de-emphasized.

Countries where this has happened have fallen far behind in scientific, economic and social progress.

The reports suggest the answer does not lie in satisfying the militant leaders, many of whom are sick, filled with hate and destruction. They, the authors suggest, have always been with us and have little power in themselves.

The problems arise because these sick leaders attract a body of nonsensical fellow students and adults. They do this by cynically invoking idealism to gain support for their destruction and terrorism.

By pointing to the plight of the poor and underprivileged, the dangers of war and the injustices in the world, they attract the sympathy of students who would otherwise be repelled by their Hitler Jugend-like terrorism.

The sympathetic backing of these numbers of normal sincere students and adults is what makes confrontations politically explosive and difficult to control.

Some of the report writers are convinced the underlying problems in the main are not Vietnam, the draft, the arms race or the Negro situation. Supporters of the militants are concerned because they believe they have no future. They fear modern technology has made them insignificant.

Society, these men say, keeps the next generation in unnatural idleness and dependence without mature responsibilities for more than 20 years while attending school. This is too much for many.

Formerly schooling ended for most in their middle teens. Then they became self-supporting. They got married and had children. There was no need for adolescent revolt.

The situation today is made worse by the tremendous push on everyone to go to college. This has brought to the university many who do not find their satisfactions in study.

Colleges have expanded too rapidly. Classes are far too large. Student-faculty contacts are impersonal. Students are lost in anonymity.

Youth needs some romantic ideas. They want to do things. They desire to serve where they think it counts.

Drew Pearson Says Nixon Tells GOP Leaders About U.S. Troop Withdrawal

WASHINGTON — President Nixon has confided to Republican congressional leaders that he would like to begin withdrawing American troops from Vietnam and replacing them with South Vietnamese troops this year. But he would like the proposal to come from Saigon.

It would be better to let the idea come from Thieu and Ky," he said, "referring to South Vietnam's president and vice president.

Meanwhile the Rand Corporation and Hudson Institute, two of the nation's biggest policy planners, have drafted detailed projections for an American withdrawal.

The Paris negotiators are dramatically close to a military settlement. The big obstacle, which may hold up a peace for months, will be a political settlement. The search for a political strategy, more than anything else, is what is bringing President Nixon and President Thieu to Midway Island for their June 8 mid-Pacific meeting.

The President denied press reports that resistance from our South Vietnamese allies had precipitated the meeting. Relations between Washington and Saigon are better, he indicated, than at any time since the bombing halt.

In fact, he said, the South Vietnamese not only are willing to discuss a political settlement but are secretly studying a constitutional amendment which would permit communists to vote in a national election. President Thieu would, however, also like an amendment to extend his presidential term from four to seven years.

Despite the optimistic outlook for a Vietnam settlement, Nixon repeated to GOP leaders that he is prepared for an about-face if the peace negotiations break down.

"It is important to note," he said sternly, "if we should be rebuffed we have other options."

Hanoi Will Be Slow Speaking in confidence, he told them that he had held up his peace proposals almost three weeks because of the communist attacks and shelling of South Vietnamese cities.

"The decision to make the speech," he said, "was made on April 20."

He didn't want to try for peace while South Vietnamese cities were under communist fire. It might have made it appear that he was reacting to military pressure.

White House national security adviser Henry Kissinger boasted to the GOP leaders that, outside of the communist bloc, the President's proposals had received a favorable response everywhere except in Sweden.

"For the first time," he said, "the Japanese leaders supported the United States position on Vietnam. Even in Yugoslavia the reaction was moderately good."

Kissinger warned, however, that there will be no immediate response from Hanoi. "It is going to take the communists two or three months to revise their strategy," he predicted. "Only then can we see whether conciliation is going to work."

Hanoi is hard at work analyzing and discussing the Nixon offer. It takes "a long time" for Hanoi to change its policy directives, Kissinger added; even longer to carry out the new directives. He explained that Hanoi prepares for weeks for a military offensive or withdrawal, because both men and materials have to be infiltrated in small units.

Meanwhile Hanoi can be expected to repeat its routine demands for unconditional military withdrawal until new decisions are made.

Henry J. Taylor Says The Reign of Queen Victoria

May 24 is an anniversary day celebrated for 63 years throughout a domain that extended across a quarter of the entire land surface of the world. Early that morning in 1819 Queen Victoria was born at Kensington Palace.

At 18 she received a crown that had been tarnished by ineptitude and wore it with honor to the age of 82 in what was by four years the longest reign, and by three days the longest royal life, in British history.

H. L. Mencken said that when women kiss it always reminded him of prize fighters shaking hands. In a joint embrace designed to crush Prussia, called the Seven Years War, the three powerful petticoats of Europe — Maria Theresa of Austria, Catherine the Great of Russia and Marquise de Pompadour of France — had come and gone, and left their several marks. But the mark left by the British Queen was the mark everlastingly to be known as the Victorian Age.

The Queen herself, however, has been persistently over-written on the stylized side in fiction and drama. Victoria and Albert and Disraeli all enjoyed a press far exceeding their performance. All three are the products of what Max Muller used to call "the migration of fables."

Totally German, Albert was the nephew of Leopold I, the first King of the Belgians. Leopold arranged the marriage. It was intensely controversial and went over with the British people like an iron balloon.

Albert sat among the Buckingham portraits that gazed down at him from the calm eternity of their gilded frames, but his salt came entirely from the Queen's table. Perhaps for this reason many found in Albert an arrogant man.

He had a Norwegian gravity, a soul some insisted was made of Spanish steel; he loved Italian spaghetti, rolled his r's nasally up from the back of his throat like a Frenchman, dressed like an Englishman — quite a "mixed bag," as the British say — and had the German nobles' imperious habit of barking when they want to be imposing. His tone changed like the snap of a trap, moreover, wherever there is a court there is usually a conspiracy. Exchanging knowing glances of complicity with the Queen, Albert was always suspected of having his arm in these up to the elbow.

Benjamin Disraeli — the Earl of Beaconsfield — in turn, a blatant today, his small, dancing eyes kingfisher blue and as cold as Alpine lakes, practiced his conception that a thing is worth precisely what it will do for you, not what you choose to pay for it. Like a careless jockey, Disraeli had a tendency to become unstuck at the turns and soar off into the spectators. But he was wise as well, did have the courage often to try the untried, and his contemporaries were unfair when they regarded him merely as a jingle man with his head stuffed full of coins.

It was Baron Robert Clive who founded British India — a Briton who did more for his country than any soldier until Wellington, and who at only 50 died by his own hand. But it was Disraeli who crowned Victoria "Empress of India." It was the Rothschilds who really made the purchase of the control of the Suez Canal for $18 million. But it was Disraeli who handed it over to the sovereign. Victoria adored him. And it was Lords Palmerston and Clarendon, not Disraeli, who really made the British Foreign Office and left it at its greatest. It has been gradually declining ever since.

Actually, the Queen's true favorite minister was Lord Salisbury. He was the English gentleman personified — a Cecil who had behind him the family heritage of long belonging on top, a position Disraeli never enjoyed. Along with the Queen, Salisbury regarded himself not as responsible to the people but as responsible for them.

Above conventions, Salisbury went so far as to refuse as Prime Minister to live in Downing Street. And so great was his prestige with Victoria that, in audience, he was the only minister in her entire 63-year reign that Victoria ever invited to sit down.

Samuel Johnson scrawled a note on Oliver Goldsmith's "Deserted Village": "Today's proud Empire hastens to swift decay." He was premature, but present, in the world-wide silence of this birthday anniversary day.

A Fortune in Black Gold

By TOM TIEDE
(NEA Staff Correspondent)
FAIRBANKS, Alaska — (NEA) — All of a sudden Tom Miklautsch, the proverbial friendly pharmacist, has become the hero of The American Dream.

He has gambled small and won big.

The story is as old as man's ability to drool. Miklautsch moved here from Oregon 15 years ago. He was $3,000 in debt, recently divorced and looking for a new life. Today he's one of the richest, luckiest men in the state.

And wouldn't you know it — he hasn't changed a bit.

Corny as it is, clipped straight from an old gold rush movie, it is nonetheless true. Tom Miklautsch, old Tom the pill pusher, has made it huge. In a way, pushing pills is the secret of Miklautsch's success. He worked hard, saved his money and bought a pharmacy store. It prospered and so did he. Then, in 1967, he invested some earnings — in oil speculation.

Rumors of fabulous new oil finds were starting to grow and Miklautsch wanted in on the action. So did everybody else, of course. In Fairbanks alone (population 40,000) more than 3,000 people now own oil lease land.

But Miklautsch has something most of his peers did not — incredible luck. During competitive biddings, and because nobody else particularly wanted them, he purchased two plots of land in a place called Prudhoe Bay, on the state's north slope, where even polar bears get lonely.

The land only cost Miklautsch $4,800 (about $1 an acre). But, true to script, it turned out to be at ground zero of what many people are now calling one of the most spectacular oil discoveries in history.

When word got out, Miklautsch was immediately invaded by corporations, individuals and propositions. Thousands were offered, then hundreds of thousands. But the friendly pharmacist held out for more.

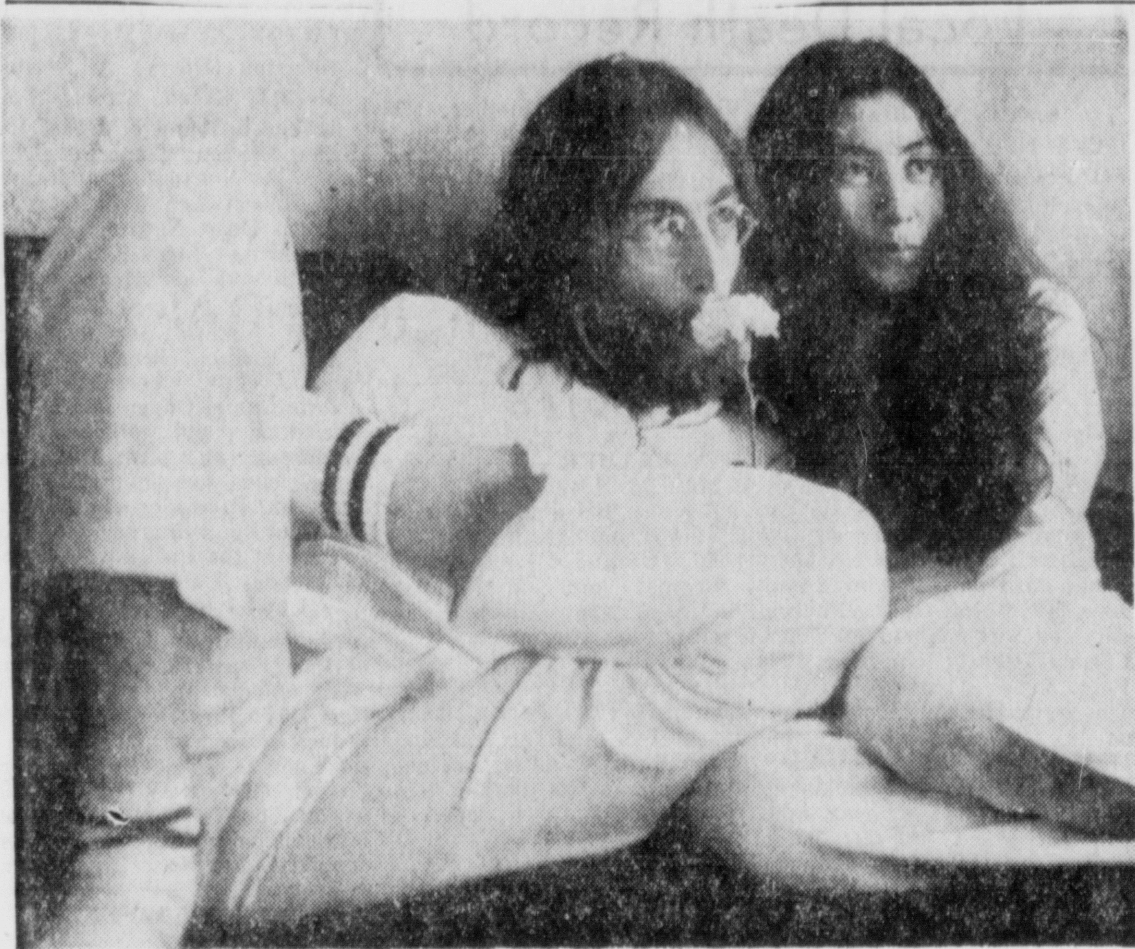

Finally, early this year, Miklautsch succumbed to temptation and good sense. In what may be the largest oil land lease a private citizen has transacted, he signed on with General American Oil Company, for a downpayment of $2 million (in stock) and a cut of 25 per cent of every barrel to be drawn.

The deal, of course, made him an overnight Midas. Not even he knows how much it may eventually earn him. If the promise holds, and big oil is drawn, he'll grow richer with each drop. And, too, as the company pumps, its stock will also, and Miklautsch will collect from that end as well.

A School Impasse in Rhinebeck

RHINEBECK — The State Public Employees Relations Board in Albany. The report outlines points of dispute between the association and the administration. The Rhinebeck Teacher's Association was recognized as the sole bargaining agent representative of the school's professional employees Feb. 12, 1968.

An impasse has been reached in contract negotiations at Rhinebeck Central School, according to a report read at the Board of Education meeting Monday night.

Harold Silvernail, president of the Rhinebeck Teacher's Association, has sent a letter to after one of the most prolonged "austerity budgets" in the fall of 1967 to be encountered in the state.

The impasse was reportedly reached more than a week ago, and no improvements have been seen since. The annual budget will be submitted to the public June 11.

The four items mentioned specifically as "unable to reach any agreement" are: the length of an elementary teacher's day; unassigned time allotment for elementary teachers; salary; and a grievance procedure.

Henry Wheeler, of Bull's Head Road, Clinton Corners, has been the chief negotiator for the teachers.

A prolonged executive session after the regular Board of Education meeting, did not yield any pertinent information that was available to the press.

In other business, District Principal Ralph C. Steeves read a report filed by speech therapist Nancy Anastasio of the Board of Cooperative Educational Services. He also noted that a Creative Language, available under Title One, would be available this summer.

The New York State School Boards Association, which met in Rhinebeck two weeks ago, sent its congratulations and thanks for the use of facilities, stating that the program was "well organized."

It was announced, in a letter from Robert Frazier, that restorative work on the Knollwood Road extension to Chancellor Livingston School would be postponed "until school lets out for the summer." Temporary patching will suffice until that time.

The resignation of elementary and junior high school music teacher Shirley M. Van Ness was accepted with regrets, effective June 30.

And the resignation of laborer Edward F. Mathieu was also accepted, effective May 16.

Voting inspectors for the June 11 school board seat election and budget were announced. Copies of the budget are scheduled for release June 3 for voter inspection. A hassle with the Rhinebeck Teachers' Association may alter the proposed plans.

Junkers Main Paltz Topic

By BRUCE KAUFMANN

NEW PALTZ

With two members absent, New Paltz Village Board briefly considered a few items and then adjourned its regular meeting Monday night.

The main topic of discussion was the increasingly aggravating problem of junk cars, accumulating at several locations in the village.

The matter was brought up by Raymond Morris Sr., a resident of New Paltz, who noted that a service station on the northwest corner of Main and North Manheim Streets was becoming an "eyesore" and an "obstacle course" because of the accumulation of wrecked cars.

During the ensuing discussion it was noted by members of the Board that other areas of the village were becoming scenes of similar blight with one trustee acknowledging that such a condition existed in the village parking lot.

The board agreed that a recently adopted ordinance regarding abandoned vehicles should be "more vigorously enforced" to reverse what Mayor Henry DuBois called a "deplorable condition."

The ordinance, adopted March 6 by the board, permits village authorities to cite property owners who are keeping junked, discarded, abandoned or unlicensed vehicles on their property.

The ordinance states that such individuals will be given 10 days to remove the vehicles and then the village will remove them at the owner's expense.

In other business at the abbreviated meeting the Village Clerk read a letter from the State Finance Department announcing the 5 per cent cut in state aid to the village.

The board members not in attendance at the Monday night meeting were Trustees Harold Phillips and William George.

Swedish Pilots

Blast Trio of Nigerian Bases

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Swedish pilots who have formed a rebel Biafran air force blasted three federal Nigerian military bases in low-level rocket runs today and destroyed four Soviet-built planes a Swedish news agency reported.

The news agency quoted airport authorities on the island of Fernando Poo off the Nigerian coast and said Lagos radio confirmed the rebel air raids without mentioning federal losses.

At least five Swedish pilots have smuggled 10 small Swedish MF19B planes into Biafra for such bombing attacks the Stockholm newspaper Expressen said.

Expressen said Sunday that Carl Gusaf von Rosen, the veteran Swedish pilot, along with other Swedes, had been made officers in the Biafran air force.

Majestic May Try It as Write-In Candidate

GARDINER, which includes the towns of New Paltz and Gardiner, was discredited earlier this month by the County Board of Elections, because he failed to obtain a sufficient number of signatures on his nominating petitions.

The Gardiner supervisor, who was nominated for the county

Legislature at the Democratic Party caucus, March 25, says that he subsequently decided not to see the position because of "friction" with local party leaders.

He said that certain party leaders in the New Paltz area were trying to influence his judgments, particularly regarding his criticisms of New Paltz Central School District Board of Education.

"I thought that if I wasn't going to get their cooperation and support, it would be unwise for me to run," Majestic said.

Subsequently, Majestic has re-evaluated his decision and says that he may run as a write-in candidate in the November election "if sufficient support develops" in order to "test his vote-getting strength in the area."

A. E. ("Al") Woolley, a New Paltz businessman, who qualified as a Democratic candidate for one of the two eighth district seats says that he is "unaware of any friction" between the New Paltz Democrats and Majestic.

However, Woolley, who will compete with Republican incumbent, Peter J. Savago of New Paltz, and another GOP contender, Louis Bevier of Gardiner, admits that Majestic had informed him earlier of his intention not to run.

Woolley notes that since Majestic did not submit an official statement to this effect, a replacement could not be made before the filing deadline.

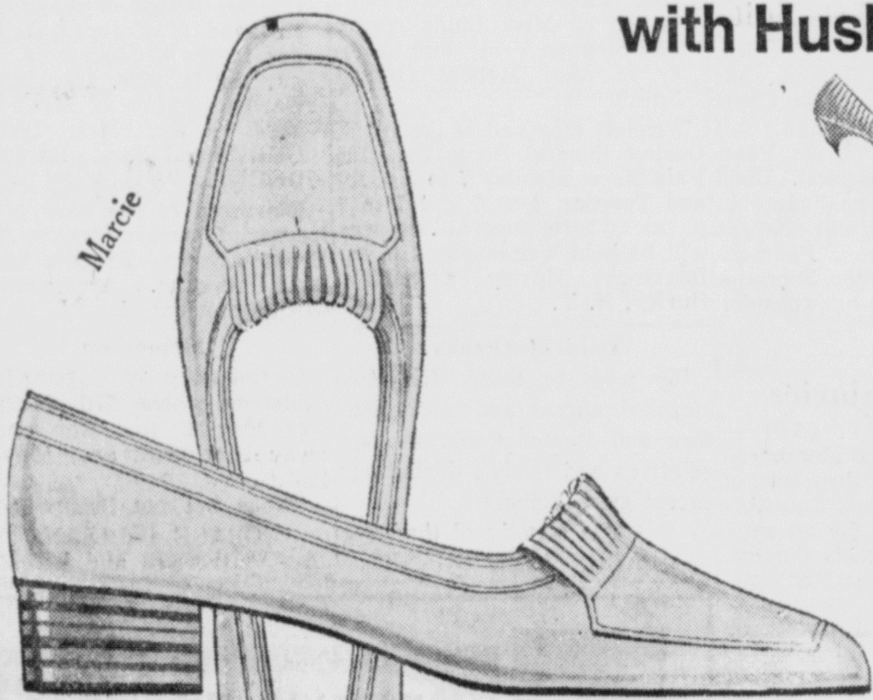

Majestic also suggests that the New Paltz group "might have been trying to embarrass" him by submitting the incomplete petition.

Priven Lists Qualifications in School Post

RED HOOK
Lewis Priven, candidate for a seat on the Red Hook School District Board of Education in June 11 elections, today announced his qualifications for the spot.

"Attendance at the meetings of the Board of Education for the past year has stimulated my interest in the spot, so that I chose to run for the vacancy created by the retirement of Herbert Petz. I have an immediate concern in maintaining a good school system, since my two children will be Red Hook pupils starting in 1969 and 1970."

Priven's education has included a BS in electrical engineering and an MS in management. He is employed by IBM in Kingston in a management position.

He continued, "My attendance at the board meetings has shown me that our board strives to meet the educational needs of all the students. For example, a special speakerphone arrangement has been made for some of the physically handicapped; the pre-first grade class has been set up for those who have completed kindergarten but are not ready for first grade; a calculus class has been added to the high school curriculum to better the needs of those taking math in college; and an extensive adult program, in which I taught last term, is available to the community."

He felt that the current board is doing a good job of turning out "well-rounded students who will be fully prepared for further education or participation in the community."

North Dutchess Administrator Named to Post

RHINEBECK Michael C. Mazzarella, administrator of Northern Dutchess Hospital, has been named chairman of the professional advisory committee of the Home Health Agency of the Dutchess County Department of Health.

The purpose of a home health agency, such as the Upper Dutchess Visiting Nurse Service, is to provide skilled nursing care and other therapeutic services for patients in their homes, thereby reducing the length and cost of hospital stays and relieving the overcrowded conditions in modern hospitals. "To be considered a home health agency," said Mazzarella, "one requirement is the formation of an advisory board. It is this board's responsibility to help establish and review policies concerning all health aspects of the agency's home care program, to determine the direction and nature of the program and to explain it to the community at large and the medical community to gain support and understanding."

"Northern Dutchess Hospital, in cooperation with the Upper Dutchess Visiting Nurse Service, has established a home care program based on the concept of pre-arrangement. Before a patient is discharged, a plan for his continued care is discussed with his doctor and family and is ready to go into effect immediately upon discharge."

"The committee is now attempting to set up a program similar to the one at Northern

Mayone Pledges To Review Zoning

Republican mayoral candidate John Ray Mayone today expressed his pledge to institute a complete review and revision of the Kingston Zoning Code, centered, and everybody benefits," Mayone said.

"The basic problem of all Zoning Plans, that no one can really foretell the future. It is a proven fact that even the experts are woefully unable to accurately predict population shifts, neighborhood development, industrial interjection, and other factors which ultimately result in modification, or in many cases, completely unforeseen development trends," Mayone said.

"Most Zoning conflicts result when residents of a certain area, who have erected homes depending upon existing zoning laws as their guarantee of protection, opposing those who would install a type of im-

DONATION — Alexander McKittrick, (L), treasurer of the Kingston Neighbors Housing Development Fund Corp., accepts $100 check from Donald H. Glass, secretary of the Redeemer Lutheran Church Council. Just the Beginning, Ray's Lawyer

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Criminal Court in Memphis held Monday that Ray waived any right of appeal when he entered a guilty plea March 10 in the shooting of King.

"It is the opinion of this court that the guilty plea entered was properly . . . knowingly, intelligently and voluntarily entered," Judge Battle had ample evidence in finding that the defendant was fully advised and has waived, intelligently and under-

Allen Gives Views On Campus Disruption

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's new commissioner of education, Dr. James E. Allen, says punitive legislation can never solve the problems of campus disruption and violence.

Instead, Allen said in an interview, legislators and educators should seek to achieve changes in curricula and cope with 'legitimate student protests and legitimate requests from students for change.'

Q. If new federal money becomes available for education during the Nixon Administration, where would you favor spending it?

A. The basic priority in U. S. education is to raise the level of those children who now are caught below minimum levels of competence. This is a critical area. This is why urban education, for example, is so important.

In higher education, I think that any additional funds which become available in the immediate future should be used to extend further the student aid program.

Although this has been extended recently, I still think that what is being done is relatively minor in terms of the number of students being reached.

Q. Do you believe that community control and decentralization offer solutions to sub-par education in inner city areas, particularly where integration is impossible due to a preponderant minority enrollment?

I am particularly opposed to legislation which would withdraw funds from institutions. Any student found guilty of a crime or of illegal disruption and expelled from an institution would automatically forfeit the right to any federal financial

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise:
Here is one for the do-it-yourselfer whose family always tracks mud in the house, and for those who do not like those welcome mats that have to be washed.

We bought some ready-mixed cement and poured a two-foot square slab (about three inches deep) right outside our back door.

After the cement was poured, we laid smooth pebbles about the size of a marble on the top. Then took our hands and mashed them down into the concrete about halfway. We let this dry for a week or so.

As we already had a concrete sidewalk, we set this to the right side of the walk in our flower bed.

When the kids come into the house, they now can wipe their muddy shoes—or if barefoot, this is a wonderful place to wash their feet with the garden hose, as the water will run down into the crevices between the rocks taking the soil with it. This is the reason for the smooth rocks. They won't hurt their feet!

We can use it to set our wet mop on to dry or even dust our broom off on it.

Any time we turn on the garden hose to water our flower beds or the lawn, we just spray the concrete slab with the "stuck-up" pebbles and it's clean as a whistle.

Mat Matlock

Dear Heloise:

I'm eleven years old but I have a dandy idea if you want something cute for your bathroom.

You can use any color of adhesive-backed paper that matches your bathroom. We have a blue bathroom so I used blue.

I took a piece of paper and drew three little fish and cut them out.

Then I wrote my name and my sister's name on two of them, and on the third one I wrote "guest towel."

Then I pasted these to the wall in the bathroom . . . the ones with our names on the tile under our towels and the guest label under the guest towel.

April Reynolds

Dear Heloise:

The easiest way I know to hang sheets is to shake them thoroughly when they come from the washing machine and fold them evenly from hem to hem. When placing them on my clothesline I fold them in half again. This leaves me with sheets folded in fourths. They take up less space on the line and when they are dry may be easily removed and folded.

Dear Heloise:

If you let your pet sleep on the foot of your bed, here's a good hint. Take a worn, zipped-end pillow cover and loosely stuff it with rags. Then teach your pet to sleep on this. Sure saves your bed covers.

And did you know that your pet could save your life in case of fire or burglars, especially if you live alone?

L. L. Smith

Dear Heloise:

If you have a paint-by-numbers picture, or a picture your child has done and you want to hang it but don't want to buy a frame, try this:

Cut a piece of cardboard into the shape and size frame you want, then cover it with a wood grain pattern of adhesive-backed paper and put the picture in it.

It makes a very cute frame.

Ellies Take Village Title In DUSO

ELLENVILLE High clinched the DUSO Village League baseball title here Monday, as Paul Rabinowitz saved a 2-1 win for the Ellies over Monticello High. Fallsburg defeated Liberty, 2-1, in another league contest. Ellenville has an 8-4 mark. Closest is Liberty at 3-4.

The Blue Devils scored both of their runs in the bottom of the fourth. David Baglieter reached first on an error and scored on Jurgen Wende's triple. Arnold Koss then drove in Wende with a sharp single to left.

Trailing 2-0 going into the top of the sixth, the Monties ruffed starting pitcher Bill Baglieter with a pair of walks and an infield error by Ellenville's second baseman.

Bill Abrams opened with a walk and took second when Bob Heins also coaxed a walk with two out. An infield error permitted Abrams to score.

Rabinowitz came in to relieve Baglieter at this point and struck out the final batter. He also set down Monticello in order in the top of the seventh to lock up the game.

WINGED — Middleweight champion Nino Benvenuti displays the broken index finger he incurred earlier in non-title light-heavyweight bout with Dick Tiger Monday night at Madison Square Garden. "You can't just fight with one hand," said Benvenuti who lost unanimous 10-round decision. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

One-Handed Nino Was Easy Meat For the Tiger

NEW YORK (AP)—Dick Tiger's upset victory over middleweight champion Nino Benvenuti turned slightly sour when it was learned the Italian had suffered a broken right hand. But there were lucrative fights ahead for both winner and loser today.

"I broke the hand in the first round when I hit him high on the head. The pain was terrible," said Benvenuti after dropping a unanimous decision in a 10-round nontitle bout with the 39-year-old Biafran at Madison Square Garden Monday night.

"I was a one-handed fighter after that," said Benvenuti, grimacing in pain. Asked why he didn't quit, Nino replied quickly and firmly, "Never. I am a professional fighter."

Dr. Edwin Campbell of the New York Athletic Commission said handsome Nino had suffered a complete break of the second metacarpal bone (behind the index finger) of the right hand.

"He won't be able to train until a minimum of eight weeks," said Dr. Campbell.

That means a delay in Benvenuti's next defense of his middleweight (160 pound) title. He whipped Don Fullmer in a title defense on Dec. 14 and his six months period of grace expires on June 14.

The World Boxing Association's championship committee insists that the 31-year-old champion must defend next against Luis Rodriguez, the WBA's No. 1 contender from Miami.

"Right now we've got offers for Benvenuti of $100,000 in Puerto Rico, $150,000 in Miami Beach, and $200,000 in San Diego which is celebrating its 200th year. My guy will take a lot less, we want the title shot."

"I'm sick over it," said Mushy Salow, manager of light heavyweight champion Bob Foster, before the word got out of Nino's broken hand. He had hoped for a lucrative match between the two champions.

A year and two days before, Foster won the light heavy crown by knocking out Tiger in the fourth round.

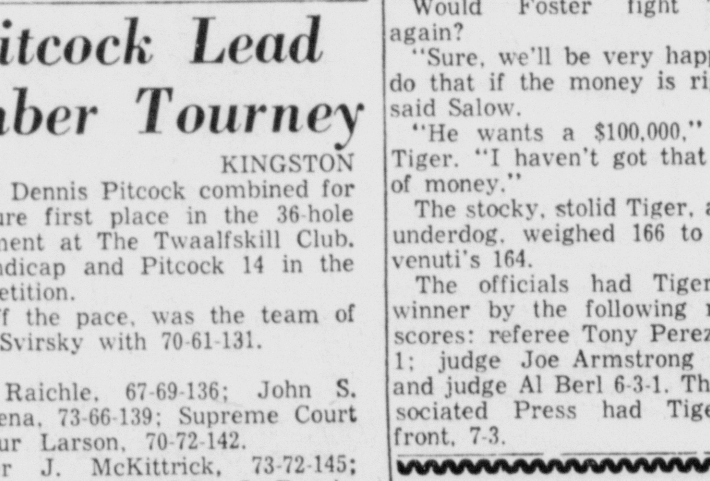

Would Foster fight Tiger again?

"Sure, we'll be very happy to do that if the money is right," said Salow.

"He wants a $100,000," said Tiger. "I haven't got that kind of money."

The stocky, stolid Tiger, a 12-5 underdog, weighed 166 to Benvenuti's 164.

The officials had Tiger the winner by the following round scores: referee Tony Perez, 72-1; judge Joe Armstrong 64-1, and judge Al Berl 63-1. The Associated Press had Tiger in front, 7-3.

Kingston High blasted Middletown High's hopes of finishing second and Newburgh Free Academy nipped Port Jervis, 4-3, to clinch the 1969 championship in DUSO baseball action Monday.

Nick Ascienzo, a tall left-hander, throttled the Middies with eight hits, struck out 12 and collected a pair of singles to register his first DUSO League win for the Maroons. The win tied Kingston (3-3) for second place with the Middies.

At Newburgh, the Red Raiders made a desperate bid to pull the game out of the fire but Nan DiEduardo choked off the rally after two runs scored to salvage the victory and the championship for the Goldbacks.

Locals Get 11 Hits

Coach Mike Rienzo's tossers assaulted two Middy pitchers for 11 hits and broke from the barrier with three runs in the first inning to take a quick 3-1 lead. An error and a single by Paul Hughes put Middletown on top 1-0 in their half.

Kingston rebounded on a double by Garry Short, an error and singles by Ken Williams and Harry Lyons.

Kingston added a pair of runs on two hits and an error in the third and the Middies picked up their second run on a walk and two base hits in the fourth.

fourth, Ascienzo singled to trigger a two-run rally. After straight baseball championship under Coach Ralph Petrillo, DiEduardo won his fifth game of the season for the Goldbacks. The three runs Port scored off him were the most he has allowed in a single game this year. He pitched three straight shutouts to open the season.

Newburgh was able to garner only four hits off losing pitcher Mike Jelly, who walked four and fanned nine.

Losing pitcher Kelly started DiEduardo's troubles, walking Cochran's three safeties led all with two outs in the seventh, the batters.

John Corcoran came through with his third hit of the game, a single, and Bill Granelle added another to load the bases. Tom McCooley then walked, forcing in Kelly. Bill Cleary drilled a single to score another run putting Port one short of a tie. But DiEduardo tightened up and coaxed Rich Grenelle into a popout to first base, ending the game.

Joe Detz collected two of the four Newburgh hits, while Cochran's three safeties led all with two outs in the seventh, the batters.

GM Warns About Light Trucks After Pressure by Government

WASHINGTON (AP) — Until pressed by the federal government, General Motors Corp. did not warn the owners of some 150,000 light trucks that the wheels might break up under heavy loads, it was learned today.

GM is notifying the owners of 1960-65 model GMC and Chevrolet three-quarter-ton trucks that overloading could cause the wheels to fail and break up—particularly on those trucks outfitted with campers.

And, for the first time, the company warned the owners of the potential defect without offering to pay the cost of repairs.

The GM letter urged the owners to have the wheels replaced—at a cost estimated by the company at $100—if their loads exceed rated capacities.

Dr. Robert Brenner, acting director of the Federal Highway Safety Bureau, conceded that GM had issued the warning statement after the Department of Transportation had informed the company that it would otherwise publicly demand such notification under the federal highway safety law.

But Brenner said the department is still testing the vehicle and wheel and has not yet decided whether it is basically defective.

And there's nothing in the law, he said, to compel the manufacturer to pick up the tab.

Company officials in Detroit insisted the wheels—manufactured by the Kelsey-Hayes Co.—are not defective. "There has never been a case where a wheel failed which was not overloaded," a spokesman said.

But the spokesman acknowledged that the truck "is capable of carrying a camper, is advertised for such purpose and is our largest seller for this use."

Although GM does not concede the truck wheels to be defective, it reached an out-of-court settlement in Claremont, Calif., last year after a front wheel gave way on a bakery truck loaded with bread. The driver was seriously injured when the truck rolled over.

GM replaced at its own expense the wheels of 10 other bakery company trucks.

Auto industry critic Ralph Nader, whose attack on GM's Corvair and subsequent clashes with the vast auto firm propelled him to national fame, was infuriated by the firm's letter to owners—which was not released to the press by the company until late Monday, upon request of a reporter.

"GM," Nader said, "is trying to place the cost on the truck owners and avoid admitting it was a defect of its own making."

He said he would seek a congressional inquiry on the basis that:

GM's letter said the problem is serious, under conditions of heavy loading, such as when the truck is equipped with an over-the-cab type camper. Specifically, if these trucks are overloaded and the tires are overinflated, these wheels are subject to sudden fracturing and breaking apart during use.

"Such occurrences result in immediate loss of air from the tire, which can come off the wheel, possible loss of control of the vehicle, and substantial risks of serious harm to persons and property in the vicinity."

To ensure that the customer understands that General Motors is not standing treat for the new wheel, the letter to Dear Chevrolet owner said: "Please contact your nearest authorized Chevrolet dealer, who will be glad to assist you in making your purchase of the stronger wheel replacement."

Nader, who estimates the bill will be more like $200 than $100, pointed to the letter's recommendation that "you consider the advice of your Chevrolet dealer on the proper tires and springs" in addition to the new wheels.

Toward its close, the letter mentioned that "Similar hazards of overload or overinflation may arise even if your truck is not equipped with the camper body."

Nader said he would seek a congressional inquiry on the basis that:

"GM has privately replaced over 3,000 such wheels when these trucks were brought back to dealers for other purposes."

"GM changed the composition of the wheel in question in 1965 because of a metallurgical defect. Yet they refuse to concede defect in the press release (announcing the warning letters). Department of Transportation engineers believe it is a defect but won't say so because of the arrangement worked out with GM."

A GM spokesman, asked why owners should be required to pay the repair bill, said the truck owner "Should not have overloaded the vehicle. If he keeps within the posted capacity, he will be all right."

This seemed to conflict with the fact that the bakery truck involved in the California case carried only bakery goods.

"Wheels must have margins of safety," Nader contended. "GM urged versatile uses for its trucks—including campers. The wheels should be able to withstand such weights and not suddenly disintegrate and break apart."

Nader called GM's action an outrageous display of corporate irresponsibility.

ALBERT SPADA

JOSEPH W. ROBERTSON

Three Added to Benedictine Board

KINGSTON—Three new members have been added to the Benedictine Hospital Advisory Board, according to announcement made recently by Sister Mary Charles, administrator.

Named to the 13-member board are County Clerk Albert A. Spada of Kingston; Joseph W. Robertson, senior vice-president of Kingston Trust Company and Anthony G. Pizzarelli, president and treasurer of Ulster Tool and Die Company.

Incumbent Members

Serving with them are incumbent members, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Joseph G. McIntyre of Air Force Reserve for six years.

Prior to his election as county clerk, a post to which he seeks reelection this November, Spada was deputy county clerk for four years serving under Lawrence D. Craft. Active in Ulster County Republican circles, in recent years he has served as general chairman of the annual county GOP dinner.

Spada, who resides at 101 Florence Street, was born in Glasco and is a graduate of the District of Columbia High School in Washington. He served four years with the U.S. Air Force during the Korean conflict and was a member of the dedication of the new Spellman Building of Benedictine Hospital by Archbishop Terence Cooke.

Spada is a member of the Lions and Elks clubs, VFM, Twaalfskill Country Club and St. Mary's Parish.

Married to the former Mary Frances Keegan of Brooklyn, they reside with their two children, Albert 5 and Charles Terence, 4.

Robertson, who was promoted to senior vice-president in charge of operations, Kingston Trust Company, is also serving as key banker in installment Credit for Ulster County for the New York State Bankers Association. He is currently membership chairman of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce and is a newly appointed member of the board of directors of Gateway Industries.

Born in Kingston and a 1946 graduate of Kingston High School, Robertson served two years with the U.S. Navy in the South Pacific. In 1951 he graduated with a BS degree in economics from Siena College, Loudonville.

Started Career in 1955

His banking career began in 1955 with the Rondout National Bank where he was manager of the loan department. Later he joined Kingston Trust Company as officer in charge of the consumer loan department and subsequently was promoted through various officer's ranks to his present position.

Robertson's banking education continued and he now holds a graduate certificate from the New York Bankers Association School of Consumer Credit, he is a graduate of Stonier Graduate School of Banking at Rutgers University, 1965 and he holds a graduate certificate from the Executive Management School of Columbia University. He has also been a student and instructor in the Ulster County Chapter, American Institute of Banking.

A member of St. Mary's Church and its Holy Name Society, Robertson is also a member of the K of C, and is a past president and director of Kingston Boys Club, past treasurer of the Ulster County Crusade and Mental Health Association.

Pizzarelli, a West Hurley resident, is president of Ulster Tool and Die Company of Kingston. Educated in Poughkeepsie grade and high schools, he is presently a member of the Mid-Hudson Chapter 74, American Society of Tool and Manufacturing Engineers.

On Chamber Board

Active in civic and fraternal affairs, Pizzarelli is presently serving on the board of directors of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce and the Kingston Kiwanis Club. A Member of St. John's Catholic Men's organization, he also belongs to the choir of St. John's Church, West Hurley, and is a third and fourth degree knight in the Kingston Council K of C. A former president of the Woodstock Country Club, 1967-68, Pizzarelli now serves as a member of its board of directors.

Fish and Podell Ask Accounting Of Contracts

POUGHKEEPSIE

Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr., today joined with Congressman Bertram L. Podell, in entering a bill to provide the government accounting office with a specific legislative order to provide regular, annual study of all government contracts of all executive agencies.

"I have joined with Congressman Podell in entering this bill, as four situations have come to light recently of contracts going way over their estimated cost, or way beyond their scheduled delivery date," Fish said.

The four contracts specified were: (1) a Lockheed Aircraft contract for the C-5A where huge increases in costs were apparently kept secret from Congress; (2) a Cheyenne Helicopter contract canceled because of excessive costs; (3) a $50 million nuclear sub sank off Vallejo, Calif.; (4) Army Sherman Tank, two public hearings by the House Armed Services Committee indicates huge cost increases and delays.

"I understand also that the Pentagon has managed to have its own accounting office do the work that should be done by GAO," Congressman Fish said, and "this amendment would make it mandatory for GAO to review all contracts and production schedules."

Congressman Fish said that he felt such a bill was essential "in light of the fact that projected major military projects stretching out over long years are imminent."

"The Bureau of the Budget is totally responsive to the President. Yet the General Accounting Office is responsive to Congress," Congressman Fish said. "If enacted into law, this bill will, within 90 days following the close of each fiscal year, require the comptroller general to submit to Congress a report on each contract of the United States in which the price was increased during the fiscal year, in excess of 10 percent over the contract price."

Congressman Fish stated that the bill was in line with the general congressional drive to get costs under control by Congress. "The reason for the bill is to let Congress know exactly what is going on, when it is going on. It would put an end to the C-5A business where cost increases were deliberately hidden reportedly not to affect the standing of Lockheed common stock."

Defense Objection Upheld In Sickler Murder Trial

CATSKILL Justice McCall upheld objections by Dutchess County Public Defender William J. Ciolko which blocked identification of the metal, which autopsy on Miss Taylor's body at a hospital.

At Monday's session of the trial here, more than 20 other items including the victim's bloodstained clothing were introduced into evidence. Detectives William Naughton and Richard Purdy testified they gathered the evidence and turned it over to the FBI in Washington for analysis. The items included a coat, bra, dungarees, sweater and sneakers worn by the young woman the night she was killed, and a man's jacket and pants, key case and other articles.

State Police early today apprehended two men on Route 28 at the traffic circle and charged them with unauthorized use of a motor vehicle which they allegedly took in Margaretville.

Troopers Gary Van Allen and Wesley Wilson of the Kingston Zone Headquarters booked the pair as Robert Cacho, 19, and Effron Rivera, 23, of Fleischmanns. The accused men were later turned over to State Police from Margaretville for processing and arraignment.

Authorities reported Cacho and Rivera were accused of taking a car belonging to John Feteke of Fleischmanns. The vehicle was returned to its owner.

Successful Investing....

by ROGER E. SPEAR
Investment Advisor & Analyst
S. S. Kresge Has Outstanding Potential

Q—We have had the good fortune of inheriting 750 shares of S.S.Kresge stock. Should we keep this stock for growth toward retirement in 10 years? —E.W.

A—S.S. Kresge has an outstanding potential in view of its aggressive entry into discounting, fast-paced store opening schedule and projected 25 per cent sales growth through 1969. However, since no stock is totally free of risk, the prudent investor spreads his risk through diversification. For that reason I suggest sale of at least one-half of your shares. The proceeds can then be invested in Boise-Cascade and Goodyear Tire and Rubber, two fast-growing industrial issues with well-established records of achievements.

Q—I bought 20 shares of Polaroid in 1966. In March of last year the shares split 2 for 1. Then this past November I sold 20 shares. How do I figure my gain for income taxes? —I.H.

A—As a result of the split you must still hold 20 shares of Polaroid. Your cost, therefore, would be one-half of your original purchase price. Your capital gain would be the difference between this cost and proceeds from the sale of 20 shares. After you have figured the long-term capital gain accurately.

Q—We have shares of Economics Laboratories and First National Bank of Chicago. Should we sell the former and put the money into the latter holding? —C.G.

A—I would not favor selling your shares of Economics Laboratories, a leading manufacturer of industrial and institutional cleaning products. The company—producer of consumer products as well—has compiled an impressive record of sales and earnings made a similar gain to 48 cents a share.

Tightening monetary conditions may cut back on First Nat. Bank of Chicago's loan activities and exert some pressure on margins. However, shares should be held for long-term appreciation.

Study Finished to Tighten Tax Laws on Rich

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee has finished a preliminary study on ways to tighten the federal tax laws applying to the very wealthy, foundations and corporations.

The progress report, due for release today, comes after five weeks of study by the committee and restrictions on the device of reducing corporate taxes by use of subsidiaries. No final decisions have been made on these issues and they will be considered at another round of closed-door deliberations.

But it is the practice not to order legislative drafts until there has been a substantial, even if informal, meeting of minds on the tax-writing committee.

President Nixon proposed some tax crackdowns April 21 in urging extension of the 10 per cent income surtax after June 30. He said administration proposals for a more complete overhaul wouldn't come until later in the year.

The committee had been waiting impatiently for Nixon's tax message so it could get started on reforms.

"There is a momentum for change," declared Committee Chairman Wilbur D. Mills after Nixon's message. He said the committee gladly accepted Nixon's suggestions, but would push on immediately toward a complete overhaul.

It was reported the committee tentatively agreed behind closed doors to a preliminary agreement to phase out an unlimited charitable deduction privilege now being used by about 100 millionaires to avoid the income tax.

The committee also has been working on proposals to limit tax advantages obtainable by some plans of financing mergers.

Other proposals reportedly agreed on previously were: —A 5 per cent tax on the income foundations receive from their investments, but not on gifts made to them.

—A requirement that donations of appreciated property made to private foundations be deducted only to the extent of the cost to the donor. This would not affect donations to public foundations or charities.

—Stiffer reporting requirements for foundations and a special audit office in the Internal Revenue Service to oversee them.

—A ban on foundation grants to individuals. These would have to be made through another organization, such as a university.

Other important areas of tax policy—including such thorny questions as the 27½ per cent depletion allowance for the petroleum industry—have not even been reached in the opening round of tax reform deliberations.

Waterfront Commission Gets Some New Muscle

ALBANY, N. Y. (UPI) — The City waterfront commission has been strengthened on two fronts in its attack on organized crime and racketeering.

Governor Rockefeller signed two bills into law Monday night strengthening the powers of the New York-New Jersey commission over employment and security, as well as expanding the commission's jurisdiction into the field of containerized shipping. The measures were sponsored by Sen. John H. Hughes, R-Syracuse, chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Crime.

ILA Opposed
The International Longshoremen's Association opposed the bills as an unnecessary expansion of commission police powers. Several legislators opposed the bills on the same grounds.

One bill would make it a misdemeanor for a union to hire as an officer, agent or employee any person who had been convicted of a felony or a misdemeanor involving moral turpitude. Violation would be punishable by a fine of up to $500, imprisonment of up to one year, or both.

The second measure gives the waterfront commission personnel "with peace officer" status the "stop and search" rights of regular policemen.

The so-called containerization bill would give the commission power to license and regulate frigate industries, including carpentering and cooping incidental to actual cargo handling. It was reported that a mafia leader held a 49 per cent interest in one of the incidental companies for an initial investment of $245, and the firm's business increased from a few thousand dollars a year to over $1 million a year in a dozen years.

Originally, the commission's power was confined to the waterfront pier areas.

The new law expands the definition of waterfront terminal and also says a marine terminal includes an area used primarily for the moving, warehousing, distributing or packing of waterborne freight to or from the piers.

Rockefeller said the bill amends the definition of "stevedore" and "longshoremen" to require container consolidating and service companies and warehouse operators to be licensed as stevedores and their employees to become registered as longshoremen.

Kenneth Bonville, a past commander of the post, will present the American Legion Medal to James Gualtieri. The Rev. Cecil McFarland will present awards on behalf of the Port Ewen Businessmen's Association and the Legion followed by a reading of essays by award winners.

The Port Ewen school chorus will then offer the Battle Hymn of the Republic under the direction of Miss Amelia Altamari. America will be played by the Port Ewen School band.

Past Commander Maurer will place the wreath after which Timmerman will give the Memorial Day Address.

The firing squad, made up of members of Post 1298, will then fire a salvo under the direction of Past Commander Walter G. Sismilich. Taps will be played by the Troop 12 Indians.

A Memorial Day prayer for peace and benediction will be offered by the Rev. Mr. McFarland, post chaplain and pastor of the United Methodist Church of Port Ewen.

Return From Cemetery
At the conclusion of ceremonies, the parade will return in the same formation (North on 9W) to Schryver Street where

Mental Health Bus Going Wednesday

KINGSTON — For the convenience of persons wishing to visit a patient at Middletown State Hospital, the Ulster County Association for Mental Health, which is a member agency of the Community Chest, sponsors a bus once a month from the Kingston area. This month the bus will run on Wednesday.

It leaves from the Park Diner in Kingston at 11:45 a.m.; from The Elms in Rosendale, 12 noon; and from the Grand Union, North Chestnut Street, New Paltz at 12:10 p.m. The bus arrives at the hospital at approximately 1:20 p.m., and leaves there at 4 p.m. The route of the bus is through Wallkill, and arrangements may be made in advance for the bus to stop at other points along this route. Further information may be obtained from the office of the Ulster County Association for Mental Health, 27 East O'Reilly Street, Kingston, or from Mrs. Albert S. Kerr, New Paltz.

There is a nominal charge for the service, and there is also a small fund available for anyone not in a position to meet this.

The office of the association is normally open Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays, but it will be closed Friday, May 30.

Sorenson Says He's Considering Senatorial Bid

TROY, N.Y. (AP) — Theodore Sorenson, former aide to President Kennedy, said again Monday night he was seriously considering a bid to run next year for the Senate from New York State.

Winking to questioners at a dinner of some 300 area Democrats here, Sorenson ended further speculation on his candidacy by saying, "That is all I am going to say this year."

Sorenson challenged the local Democrats from Rensselaer and Saratoga Counties to consider their responsibilities "not as Democrats but as citizens." He urged them to look at the country's current moral dilemmas and to return to what he termed the Kennedy spirit and offer fresh faces and new leadership.

On Vietnam he said, "it is a moral question at heart...when this country continues to send its bravest and finest men to kill in a far off country to achieve a settlement...we should have achieved six or eight months ago."

Other moral questions facing the nation, he said, were recent Supreme Court problems, the ABM system, social security cuts, the selective service system, civil rights and a degrading welfare system.

Dionne Sisters 35 Wednesday

Normal Lives Doomed From Start

MONTREAL (UPI) — The slim, crop-haired young mother of four laughed gaily. "Ah yes, the age 35 is something special, but particularly for a woman," she acknowledged. "But that is the same for every woman, n'est-ce pas? It is no different for us because we are the quintes."

Cecile Dionne Langlois spoke both as a woman and as one of the world's most famous sisters—the four surviving Dionne quintuplets whose quest for "normal lives" was doomed from their odds-disproving birth in an impoverished farmhouse in 1934 in the northern Ontario wilderness.

On Wednesday, May 28, the Dionne sisters will be 35, a time of critical self-appraisal for many a woman. But the Dionne sisters, whose very birth in those days before fertility drugs was a medical marvel, and whose growth to young womanhood was deeply scarred by memories of days when they were once described with cruel accuracy as North America's No. 1 Peepshow, want only to have the day go unnoticed.

"On May 28, I have a dental appointment—and you know how hard it is to get one these days," Cecile said with firm practicality at her home in Quebec City.

"I don't see how I would be able to come to Montreal to see my sisters—I have to get the children to school each day. Besides, don't you think we're getting too old for birthday parties?" she added gently.

"For me, it is not such a good idea to look back on the years—I hate to do that," Cecile said slowly.

I have learned that it is useless to cry over what has happened in the past, to have regrets.

"It is better to take it the way it comes, make the best of it, and go on."

For the Dionne quintuplets, the joys would seem to have come at one-fifth the rate most women see by 35, while the sorrows have kept multiplying.

The charmed circle of their five lives was broken three months after their 20th birthday in 1954, when Emilie suffocated during an epileptic seizure at a convent rest-home north of Montreal.

In the decade and a half since then, three sisters—Annette, Cecile and Marie—have married, and among them they have nine children. But only Annette's marriage has endured.

The fourth sister, Yvonne, shows no interest in marital life and has yet to find satisfaction or comfort in the world outside the convent life which was forbidden her.

The alienation between the sisters and their firm-handed father, Oliva Dionne, has grown wider through the years, with each side seemingly less able or willing to heal the past wounds as years go by.

Relatives say Oliva and his wife Elzire, now in their 60s, have yet to see all their grandchildren.

Cecile tried to work some rapprochement when she visited her parents last February in Callander, Ont., and she recalled, "It gave me much joy to see them again. They seemed to be pretty well for their ages, although mama has to take care of herself. She has trouble with her legs."

But friends said she returned home deeply hurt that she had encountered a lingering "coldness" from her father.

A few years ago, Papa and Mama Dionne came to Montreal—and stayed at a motel. The girls brought some of their children to meet their grandparents there. Communication between the girls and their parents is now chiefly by way of sporadic cards for such events as Christmas and birthdays.

The marriages of both Marie and Cecile have ended in legal separations, and friends dismiss any prospects of reconciliation in either case.

Marie, long the fraillest of the sisters, has rounded out somewhat, and after going through a strawberry-blond phase, has now settled for a dark-blond hairdo in a medium-length cut.

With the breakup of her marriage to provincial government excise expert Florian Houle four years ago, friends say she has retreated back into the reserve shell from which she so belatedly had been emerging.

Profound depression left Marie unable to cope with day-to-day problems and forced her to put her two daughters, Monique, 8, and Emilie, 6, into a foster home operated by nuns.

Friends say they were "very deeply worried about both her physical condition and her attitude to life" until she recently agreed to medical care.

A double tragedy struck Cecile, outwardly the most sociable and high-spirited of the sisters, but inwardly an acutely sensitive young woman.

Six years ago, Bruno, one of twin boys born to her and gregarious Philippe Langlois, died after living 15 months in hopeless deformity from birth. Within two years, her marriage was at an end.

Unlike Marie, friends said Cecile has slowly learned to stitch her life back together. "Trouble and life have given Cecile a maturity and a wisdom," one intimate said. "Occasionally now, Cecile will speak of her marriage."

NEW DELHI (UPI)—"I like the untouchables. I love them. But I shall not touch them."

In those words, one of the four religious heads of India's 390 million Hindus demonstrated that the caste system continues to discriminate in India despite a democratic constitution that forbids it.

"Every man inherits inequality," the Jagatguru (Supreme Teacher) Shankaracharya of Puri continued in an interview.

"Therefore, once an untouchable always an untouchable. A Hindu is born a Hindu, neither baptized nor converted to Hinduism. The untouchables are a component of our society. Their position in the social order is fixed, but there is no question of hating them."

"What has mere physical contact to do with love or (person who has renounced the world) and as such a dead person. You are not supposed to touch me. But then you do not hate me, do you?"

The Shankaracharya, 56, ignited public protests when he told a Hindu convention in March that the nation was going to the dogs because the government was trying to eliminate discrimination against the untouchables.

The Hindu leader was denounced in Parliament and burned in effigy.

The untouchables are the lowest of the four varnas (colors) into which Hindus are divided according to the Code of Manu, which was written around 100 to 300 A.D. to define rules of domestic conduct and ceremony.

The four classifications: Brahmins (priestly caste), Ksatriyas (warriors), Vaishyas (farmers and traders) and Sudras (untouchables).

Definition of an untouchable relates to an individual's or a family's background and life habits. Anyone who makes a living "taking life" (i.e., fishermen, slaughterers of cattle, etc.) is an untouchable.

Persons whose work brings them into contact with dirt of any kind—for example sweepers, washermen and the like—are classified untouchable. Eating the flesh of cattle or swine characterizes some untouchables. To a high caste Hindu any descendant of an untouchable remains an untouchable—there is no climbing out of this low estate.

India's 390 million Hindus include 72 million untouchables, said to be the world's largest group of subordinate people.

India's total population is about 511 million people.

By tradition, untouchables are restricted to such occupations as scavengers, cobblers, taxidermist and laundrers.

The caste system is breaking down in cities but still is practiced in rural areas despite constitutional guarantees of human equality.

Untouchables are banned by the old religion from entering Hindu temples or drawing water from public wells. Devout Hindus believe they are polluted if a Sudra touches them or even if a Sudra's shadow falls on them.

The Shankaracharya wore a saffron robe and squatted on a leopard skin during the interview in a hut on the banks of the sacred river Yamuna. He fingered his holy beads. A thick bundle of incense sticks burned on a platform filled with flowers and gold and silver Hindu idols.

Would the Hindu leader give first-aid to an untouchable child in an emergency?

"Well, I don't know," the swami replied. "Maybe I am a Sanyasin, but nevertheless I am a human being. I guess I would touch such an imaginary victim, but then I would make a beeline for the washroom."

The Shankaracharya blamed the Buddhists and the British who ruled India before independence for "making a mess of our religion."

"I don't know why people misunderstand me," he said. "In a way, I have nothing against the untouchables. Let them be elected the presidents and premiers of our country. But how can you force people to touch them?"

The swami said he would help raise funds for schools and hospitals for the Harijans. The name Harijan means God's people.

Despite the constitutional prohibition of discrimination a committee report submitted to Parliament in April listed continuing cases of it.

Persecution in Assam State drove 150 low-caste girls out of Hinduism and they became converts to Islam, the report said. Other incidents reported to Parliament:

—Wedding processions held by untouchables were forced to detour around higher-caste districts.

—In northwest India, untouchable children were not allowed to share classrooms with higher caste Hindu children.

Mahatma Gandhi, the first Indian leader to defend the untouchables, condemned all Hindus who shunned "God's people." While in New Delhi, he spent much of his time in a scavengers colony praying for the untouchables.

Student Activism—Potentially Constructive

(United Press International)

Is student activism, now seeping down from the universities to the high schools, only a negative force bent on chaos and anarchy?

An affirmative answer is a popular one among some political figures and large segments of the American population. But prestigious voices are being raised to the contrary.

After a detailed study of student activism and a series of statewide meetings with school administrators, teachers and students, the New York State Department of Education prepared a report stating:

"Educational leaders must take the initiative in convincing their profession and their community that student activism is potentially a constructive force compatible with democratic principles.

"By word and deed," the report said, "educational institutions need to show that responsible citizenship can best be taught by making students responsible for their own conduct and by extending the range of responsibility."

The absence of such leadership by the schools may result in the enactment of "repressive and damaging measures...which may well cause intensification of the problem."

On the West Coast, the respected Bureau of Educational Research and Service at the University of Oregon College of Education reached the same basic conclusions.

In a study, "Activism in the secondary Schools: Analysis and Recommendations", the Bureau said:

"The perceptive principal...will realize that activism in the high school can be valuable. It can make students aware of a world greater than themselves by involving them in profound social issues. It can provide a forum for curriculum improvement and re-evaluation of student government.

"Most important, it can become a working exercise in the relationship between freedom and responsibility and add real vitality to the educational program in the secondary schools if a design exists to channel the force."

The Oregon report said that when activism is ignored or "put down" it can result in disruptive activity.

In what appears to be a tremendously significant observation, the Oregon study says that all students, not just the overt activists, are questioning values generally and authority specifically.

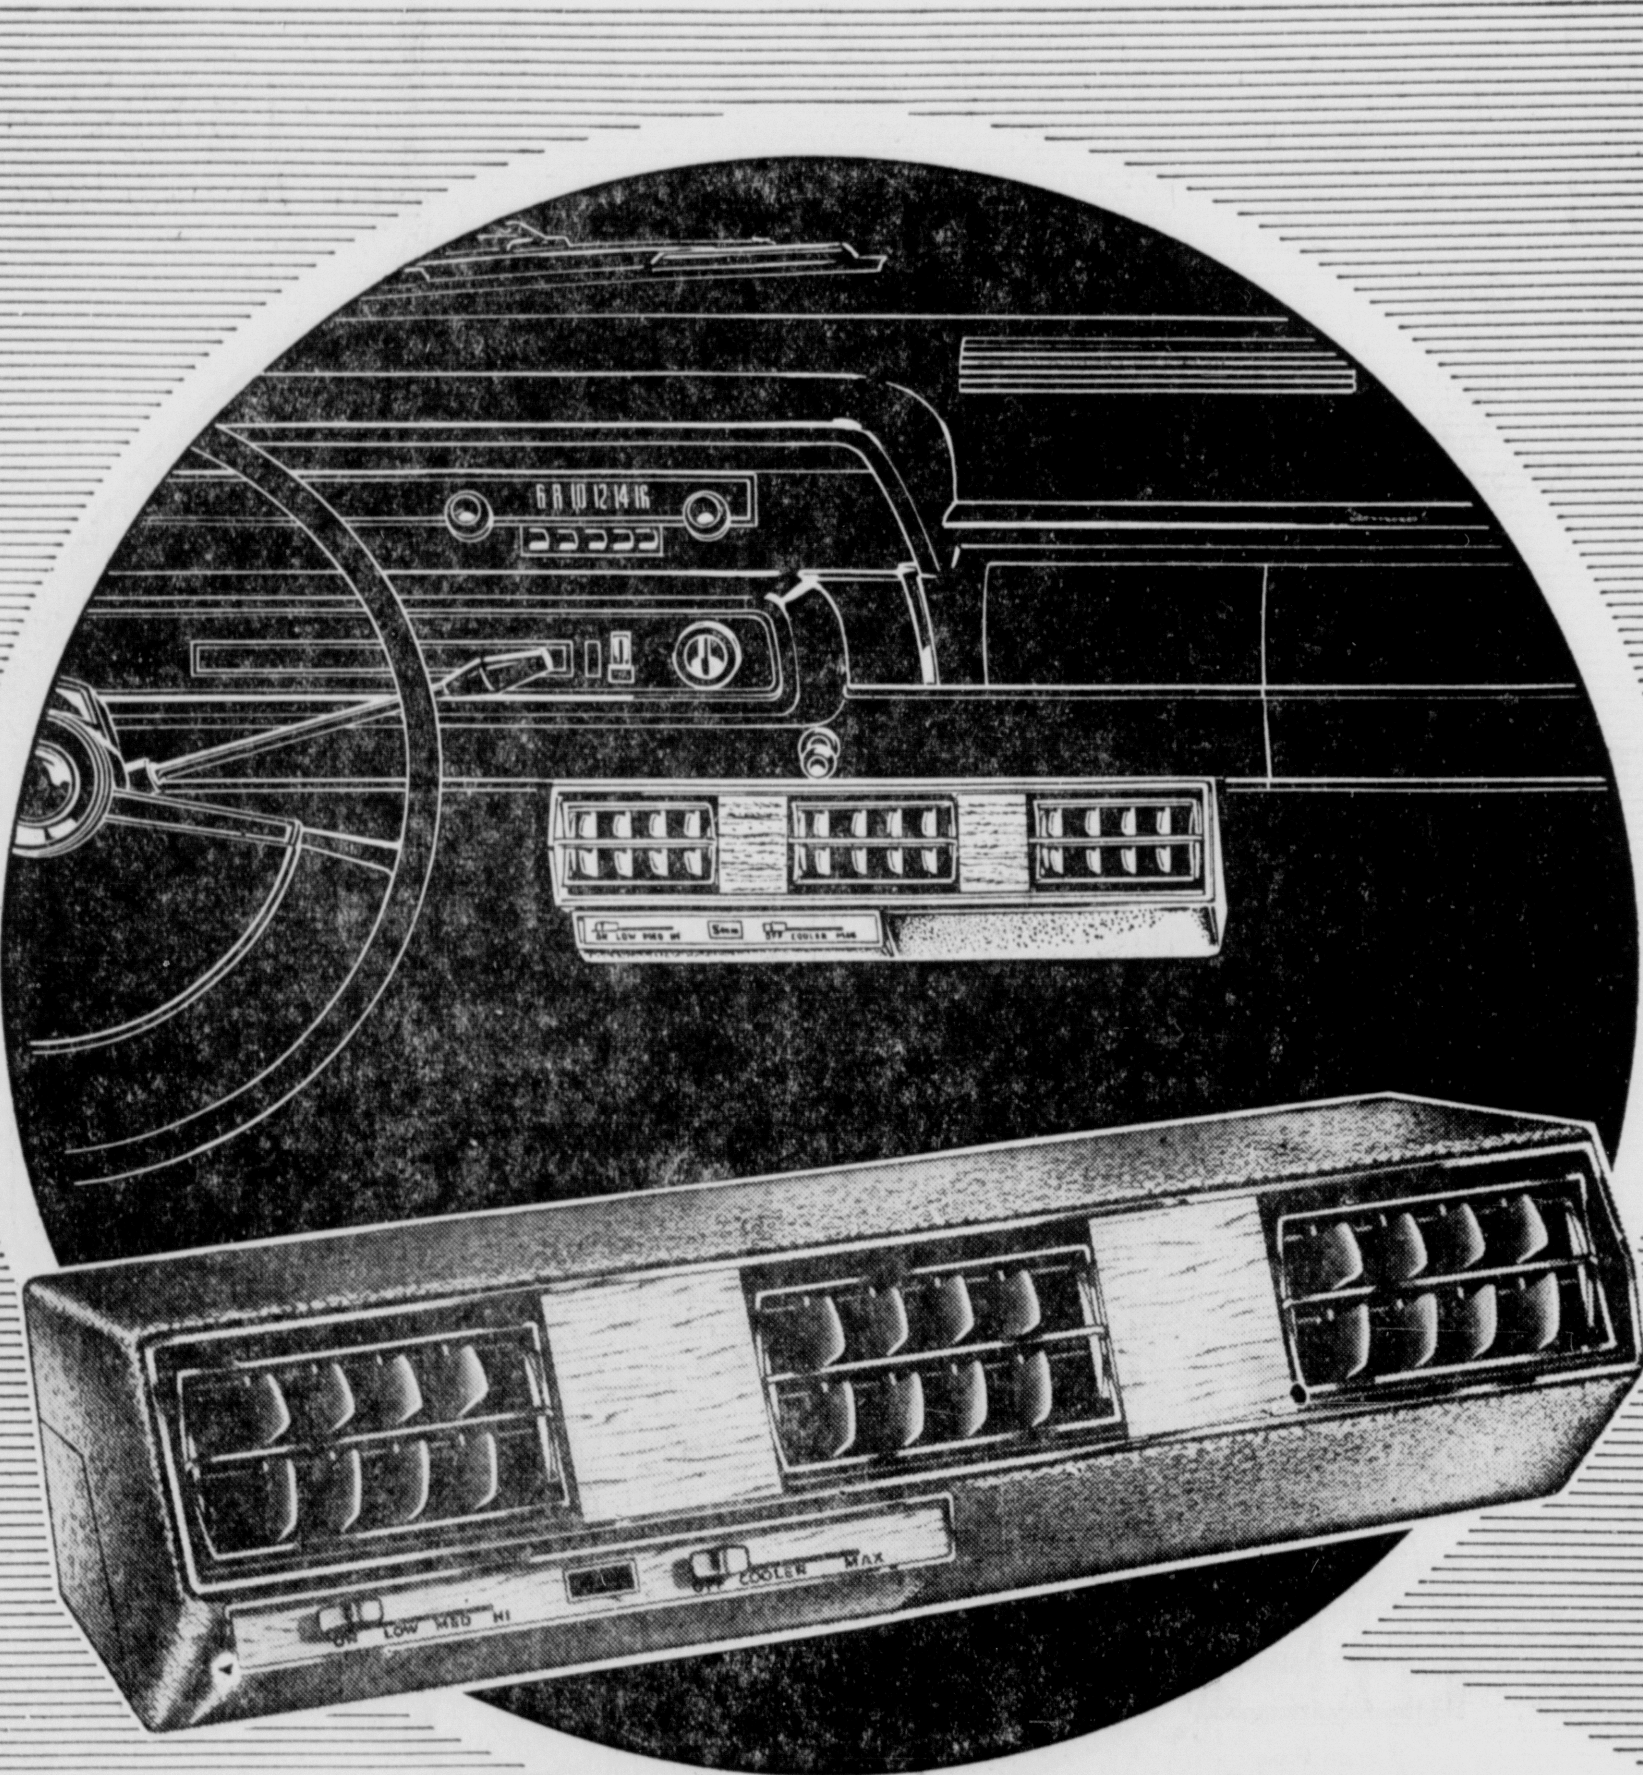

The point is that the adult "establishment" is heading for trouble if it writes off the youth revolt and student activism as phenomena involving a tiny minority of long-haired white radicals and a few militant blacks.

The New York report, issued last month while now U.S. Commissioner of Education James E. Allen headed the state education department, "Perhaps the major confrontation occurring today is the fact that our youth are seeking to involve us in evolution aimed at redefining democracy in a way which is consonant with our future as well as our heritage. We can neither dictate answers to youth nor abdicate our responsibility to them if we are to be true to the canons of our profession. We have no choice save to teach.

Rocky's Arrival

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI)—Ecuador's foreign minister, University students struck in protest against the arrival of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller today on his second factfinding tour of Latin America for President Nixon.

Trouble loomed in other countries on Rockefeller's agenda. The New York governor canceled his visit to Peru because the government there, angry that the United States cut off its arms sales, rejected his visit as "inopportune."

Colombian officials mindful of the violent students the governor encountered when he came to Bogota three years ago, hoped to get Rockefeller into the city without incident when he arrives late this afternoon.

In 1966, youthful mobs at National University tried to stone Rockefeller when he came to inaugurate an experimental farm. Today students at the same campus carried out their 24-hour strike with colleagues at the Free University.

Police considered whisking the American envoy into the capital on a special route used by Pope Paul VI last summer. The route avoids the National University campus.

Not all universities here portended hostility for Rockefeller. The private University of the Andes said it would present him with an honorary degree. The Colombian government of President Carlos Lleras Restrepo also prepared a friendly reception. Sources close to the regime said Lleras Restrepo would restate support of the Alliance for Progress, the largely unfulfilled economic pact between the United States and Latin countries.

Rockefeller is likely to encounter cooler attitudes on other stops in his second tour, this month for Nixon.

Ecuador's foreign minister, Rogelio Valdivieso, has said the governor will be received only out of courtesy. He said Washington already is aware of Ecuador's needs and indicated the government in Quito thought the trip unnecessary. Rockefeller will spend two days in Colombia before flying to Quito, where leftist students vowed anti-American demonstrations but cancelled the appearance of black militant Stokely Carmichael the same day Rockefeller was to arrive. The students said Carmichael's life would be in danger.

From there, the governor goes to Bolivia, where Communist-backed youths planned a "great anti-imperialist march" to protest Rockefeller's visit. The right-wing Falangist party there denounced the visit as "undesirable."

Trinidad is next on Rockefeller's nine-day tour, and little hostility is anticipated there. Venezuela, his last stop, several political parties already have urged the people to "repulse" Rockefeller.

The Venezuelan Federation of University Centers declared the governor persona non grata Monday night and asked Venezuelan President Rafael Caldera to refuse to allow Rockefeller to visit Caracas. The group said Rockefeller's presence would cause "all kinds of disturbances, which could have serious consequences."

Rockefeller encountered student protests and some violence when he toured Mexico, Guatemala, Honduras, El Salvador and Panama.

The governor was meeting with President Nixon briefly at the White House today before flying to Bogota with his entourage.

3 Children, Woman Die
In Rensselaer House Fire

RENSSELAER, N. Y. (UPI)—Flames shot through a two-story frame house in this Hudson River city early today, killing three children and a woman.

The victims were Robert, 5, Mary, 7, and Cheryl, 3, all children of Mrs. Mary Gallagher, and Patricia Glaser, 28. The Glaser woman, a ward clerk at Memorial Hospital in Albany, had been living at the Gallagher home.

The house was engulfed in flames when firemen arrived, and the intense heat kept them at bay for a time.

Witnesses said flames were shooting from every window and thick smoke billowed upward in the pre-dawn cold. The temperature was in the low 40s. The first alarm was called in by a next-door neighbor and the second, minutes later, by her son from a street corner firebox.

"It was just awful," said the neighbor, Mrs. Richard Malark. "The smoke was pouring from the house."

A switchboard operator, Mrs. Malark called the Fire Department and then aroused her sons. She said she had to "hold back" her teen-age son from trying to enter the blazing building and it was he who raced to the corner to turn in the second alarm.

Pill Use Hurts Mom!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1969 by Chicago Tribune, N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is engaged to be married in November. Well, last week, while looking for bobby pins in her dresser drawer, I came across some little pink pills in a queer-looking pill box. When I asked her what they were, she said, "Birth control pills. You know I'm supposed to take them 3 months before the wedding." (I know she had taken one that day because there was one less than the day before.)

My question is this: "Why is she taking them now when the marriage isn't until November?"

I would throw her fiancé right out on his ear but I'm afraid he'd break my heart as I love my daughter very much. Every time I look at her fiancé now I get a terrible feeling of hatred. How in the world can I help plan a wedding in November feeling the way I do about him?

DISAPPOINTED MOM

DEAR MOM: You had better get over your feeling of "hatred." It takes two to tango, and while I do not condon this type dance step before the wedding march, it beats the "Rock-a-bye Baby" waltz.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell me what you think of a father who doesn't think he's needed at the hospital when his 3-year-old son has his third operation. (Plastic surgery for burns.)

Daddy wasn't there for the first two, either. Mommy went alone and sat in the waiting room for a couple of hours. My husband says, "What good will it do the boy? I'll come in the evening to see him when he knows I'm there."

Am I right or wrong to feel that my husband should be there?

"MOMMY'S HERE"

DEAR MOMMY: I can't imagine a father who would stay away. But aside from this idiosyncrasy, he may be an adequate husband and parent. Don't push it.

DEAR ABBY: I read with interest the articles about loose dentures. My wife had that problem; then we started world traveling in connection with my work. She went to a dentist in Denmark, and he said he'd never seen such a sloppy fit! Then he added, "I'll bet it was done in the States." He was right. She said if he could do a better job to go to it. He did, and what a beautiful job that dentist turned out! Without denture powders, glue or anything to hold them in those dentures fit as snug and comfortable as her own teeth.

I think Ralph Nader could do a good job exposing the dental profession here. I had a bridge made in Calcutta and another made in New Zealand, and all the American dentists marvel at the fine craftsmanship. By the way, the dental work my wife and I had cost about 30 per cent of what they charge here.

Do me a favor and don't use my name. No one knows my wife wears dentures, and I don't want her embarrassed.

Squeeze End Play Turns the Trick

tricks. He could make the 12th by leading a diamond toward his king provided that East held the diamond ace. That would have been the normal way to play the hand but the double had marked the diamond ace in the West hand and it was up to South to find some other way to make 12 tricks.

It wasn't too difficult. South saw that a squeeze end play would develop almost automatically provided West held the jack and 10 of hearts in back of the queen that he had led.

There was no reason not to start by running off six clubs and discarding a spade and diamond from dummy. West had to make four discards and proceeded to jettison the eight of hearts, queen-six of diamonds and a spade.

Now South was sure that he had him in the vise. He ran off three spades and the unfortunate West had to throw away the jack of diamonds on the last spade. South let the nine of hearts go from dummy. It had done its work and could be spared.

Then South led his seven of diamonds. West had to take his ace and give South the last two tricks.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

West's double of six no-trump was a typical bad rubber bridge bid. West didn't expect that South was going to make a slam against his hand but he should have been happy to pick up a small profit by setting his opponent undoubled.

He almost surely would have set the hand without the double. With the double he told South how to make his contract.

South won the heart lead and had no trouble counting 11

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

PRISONER OF LOVE: (Q.) I'm in the County Jail. I made a mistake. It was my first. But that's not what I'm writing about.

I'm 17 and I'm very much in love with a girl. I was going steady with her when I was picked up. Since I've been in jail she's written me more than once to tell me how much she still loves me. She also comes to see me. She also comes to see me pretty regularly.

But the other fellows here say she's found another guy. Not because I'm in jail but because a girl needs love more than a boy and she can't wait for me. Is this true?—L.J. in Florida.

(A.) How do the men there know what your girl is doing? They're inside. She's outside. Believe her, not them. It is entirely possible that she will wait for you. Girls have a great capacity to wait for boys they really love.

The best thing you can do is believe her and enjoy her visits and letters. If you start accusing her or trying to get her to promise impossible things, she may quit writing and visiting you. Then you'd be worse off than you are now.

DANCE DEADLINE: (Q.) I'm 16 and can't dance. My sister and friends have given up trying to teach me.

Now, a boy has asked me to the prom. I told him yes, but I didn't tell him I can't dance. I was hoping I might learn before the prom, but I'm sure I can't. What can I do?—R. in Birmingham, Ala.

(A.) Some people never learn to dance. They just don't have a feeling for rhythm. You may be one of those people. But it may be that you've just never tried with someone you really wanted to dance with.

Be honest with your prom date. Tell him the truth and ask him if he wants to teach you before or during the prom. I advise girls never to call a boy on the phone unless there is a definite, urgent reason. You have an urgent reason. Call your date today or tonight.

TV--The Ones to Remember

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—What another beautiful fictional reduction of "Net Playhouse," also the best when it was on television programs are we presentation of the boyhood memories of Truman Capote. This hour was a sequel to another Capote reminiscence, "A Christmas Memory."

In the entertainment field, I don't think we'll recall too many on the basis of achievement. But there were some shows of exceptional note, and I think that as good a place as any to start is with ABC-TV's "The Thanksgiving Visitor," the numerous outstanding production of the boyhood memories of Truman Capote. This hour was a sequel to another Capote reminiscence, "A Christmas Memory."

I think we will also remember from the last year the CBS-TV broadcast of Barbra Streisand's hugely attended concert in Central Park. Her wizardry shows of exceptional note, and I think that as good a place as any to start is with ABC-TV's "The Thanksgiving Visitor," the numerous outstanding production of the boyhood memories of Truman Capote. This hour was a sequel to another Capote reminiscence, "A Christmas Memory."

Easily the best series of the year was a short-run British import on CBS-TV, "The Prisoner," starring Patrick McGoohan, whose previous beginning this Thursday, and it series, "Secret Agent," was worth catching.

A band of 76 trombones and 110 cornets would not have surprised Hector Berlioz, the French composer whose own orchestras were of breath-taking proportions. The orchestras of the 1830s had up to 60 players. The World Almanac notes, but Berlioz conceived of an orchestra of 465, including 242 strings, 30 pianos, 30 harps, 16 French horns, 12 cymbals and assorted percussion.

Spare Life of Coed's Kidnaper

The Deliberations Began With Prayer

DECATUR, Ga. (AP) — A praying jury has convicted Gary Steven Krist of the $500,000 ransom kidnapping of coed Barbara Jane Mackle, but spared his life because of elaborate steps taken to keep the victim alive in a buried box.

Krist, 24, who had predicted the death penalty which the state asked, was given a life sentence Monday night on the jury's recommendation for mercy. Normally a life term may be reviewed for parole in seven years in Georgia.

Jury foreman H. I. Rainwater said deliberations began with a prayer. He disclosed in an interview that the 12 men were divided on whether to impose the death penalty, but finally voted for mercy because "of the effort and precaution he took to see that she (the victim) wasn't killed."

"He did go to an awful lot of trouble to see that she would be all right," Rainwater said.

Miss Mackle, a 20-year-old Emory University junior, was buried in an 8-by-2-by-2-foot box for 83 hours after her abduction from a Decatur motel last Dec. 17. The box contained food and tranquilizer-loaded drinking water. It also had a battery-run ventilation system, water pump and small light that burned out after a short time, leaving the girl in total darkness.

After the victim's father, land developer Robert F. Mackle of Coral Gables, Fla., paid the ransom, the kidnaper telephoned the FBI with directions to the remote burial spot northeast of Decatur.

Dist. Atty. Richard Bell had presented a massive—and unrefuted—array of evidence, eyewitnesses and fingerprints linking Krist to the crime.

"I'm disappointed," Bell said of the verdict.

Krist's two court-appointed lawyers, Mobley Childs and James R. Venable, offered no defense testimony, choosing instead to plead for mercy in final arguments. By foregoing testimony, they were entitled to open and close the final arguments.

Judge H. O. Hubert Jr. asked if the defendant wanted to say anything before sentence was passed. Krist whispered to Venable.

"The defendant wants to thank the jury, but that would be improper," Venable said, smiling.

The verdict came at 9:52 p.m. after three hours and 46 minutes of deliberation on the trial's seventh day.

Ruth Eisenmann Schier, 26, former University of Miami biology student also charged with the kidnapping, is to be tried in June.

Krist, a native of Washington state, escaped in 1966 from a California penal institute where he was serving a sentence for car theft. At the time of the kidnapping, he was employed as a technician at the University of Miami's Institute of Marine Sciences.

The Nixon Dilemma on Cutback in Viet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Any de-escalation of the Vietnam war short of actual troop withdrawals from the battlefields would be so complicated as to be impossible to carry out, according to White House sources. So, the sources indicated, there appears little prospect for reducing the war's scale as long as Hanoi refuses a mutual troop pullout and enemy attacks continue.

The sources pointed to the heavy fighting over Dong Ap difficulty in any attempt to cut down the American battle efforts. And they posed a series of questions to illustrate the dilemma President Nixon would face if he decided to reduce the fighting level unilaterally:

If the United States made a policy decision not to attack the hill or any other piece of terrain, how would we communicate this to the other side? Would we tell them we have issued orders not to attack certain hills? What would we do when they took advantage of areas made off limits to American forces?

Withdrawal of units, the sources said, is the best route toward reduction of violence.

"We have offered a mechanism which is immediate, automatic and can be guaranteed (to de-escalate)," the White House sources said.

In his peace proposal two weeks ago, President Nixon offered to remove U.S. troops from Vietnam over a 12-month period if North Vietnam agreed to reciprocate.

The White House sources said that not only "have we had no enemy proposals or de-escalation" but the rate of enemy attacks has intensified.

California—Five fires were set Monday on the campus of Los Angeles City College. Firemen said the blazes did about $2,000 damage in restrooms and two bungalow classrooms.

Delaware—The University of Delaware withdrew recognition of the Students for a Democratic Society because the radical group said it would not recognize the authority of the school's administration.

The sources cited the increased attacks as being directly responsible for the greater numbers of American dead in recent weeks.

Disputing the claims of Democratic critics, the White House sources said there has been no escalation of the U.S. military effort since President Nixon took office. Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and Democratic Whip Edward M. Kennedy both have said they feel U.S. troops have put too much pressure on the enemy and this escalated the fighting.

"The number of battalionsized American operations has not increased since last November," the White House sources said. "It has been substantially constant."

The sources also maintained that operations by the South Vietnamese have remained at generally the same level since January although their activities were stepped up last fall.

The rate of B52 sorties, currently around 1,800 per month, has been about the same since March 1968 and is scheduled to drop to about 1,600 sorties per month beginning in July, the sources added.

Reagan Wary of Campus Appearance

Two Shooting Incidents at Women's School

By United Press International
Sixteen persons were wounded, at least one critically, in two shooting incidents Monday at Texas Women's University. Three policemen were shot and a dozen others injured and at least 36 demonstrators were arrested in violence triggered by a student protest at Seattle Community College.

About 2,000 students were camped on the lawn at the residence of Southern Illinois University President Delyte Morris today in protest over hours at women's dormitories. The school has about 20,000 students.

And California Gov. Ronald Reagan said after Monday's Statehouse march by 7,000 students his mere presence on a state campus could trigger a riot.

Violence began in Seattle when police turned back members of the Black Students Union and Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) at the main entrance of the college. Fifty to 60 youths hurled bottles and rocks at the police, one of whom suffered a broken leg.

Police fired tear gas and the demonstration spread to the surrounding streets. Three policemen were wounded by gunfire. All were hospitalized in good condition.

Demand Resignation

The students demanded one of the school's all-white board of trustees resign to allow appointment of a black trustee.
